BEAUTY BUILD-UP—Officials of the State Highway Patrol hope this photograph will create enough interest in drivers' licenses to bring a big turn-out of applicants between now and next Monday, the deadline. When sales began to slack off yesterday, following big crowds the day before, the patrol resorted to the methods of the publicity artists. Here pretty Mrs. Marjorie Edwards, of the State Purchasing Department, is receiving her license from Miss Bille Clowdiss.

'Odie Fluker' Arrested in Florida Holdup

Suspect Believed To Be Escaped Life-Termer From Atlanta.

Odie V. Fluker, life-termer who escaped from a work camp at Carrollton June 20, was believed arrested at Jacksonville yesterday charged with a $1,000 holdup. The 32-year-old trusty, convicted of slaying Guyol, Atlanta "numbers" king in 1936, had six days of freedom—ended 30 minutes after he is accused of robbing a Jacksonville grocery store and stealing the city-owned automobile of R. E. Parris, superintendent of the Florida city's street cleaning department. Patrolman E. W. Abernathy said he nabbed the robbery suspect and that the man admitted being Odie Fluker, under life sentence in Georgia. He was booked at the Jacksonville police station under that name. Fluker was convicted of several robberies in Atlanta prior to receiving the death sentence for killing Guyol. The death sentence was commuted to life in 1937. Clem E. Rainey, chairman of the State Prison and Parole Commission, said yesterday he had not then been notified of Fluker's capture but that the state would move at once to return him here granted that Florida officials will honor extradition requests.

Cloudy With Showers

Is Weather Prediction
Mostly cloudy with showers is forecast for Atlanta today according to the prediction made yesterday by the United States Weather Bureau. Temperature extremes anticipated are 68 and 84 degrees, approximating yesterday's range of 68 and 81 degrees.

Patrol Takes Tip From Resorts, With Beauty To Boost Licenses

Unseasonal Slump Leaves Reinforced Staff Twiddling Thumbs at Capitol; Final Deadline Scheduled Next Monday.

Like a summer resort that had lost its appeal, the first floor of the state capital was a desolate place yesterday, for the heavy flow of customers buying driver's licenses had thinned to a mere trickle. The crowds were so large Wednesday you had to push your way through the hall. The Constitution printed a picture of the long lines and when officials of the State Highway Patrol saw this picture they immediately got busy and rushed another validating machine to the capitol to take care of the overflow.

This seemed to have been all in vain, however, for there were no customers. The clerks who help the applicants fill out their blanks were sitting around twiddling their thumbs. The highway patrol officials were worried. They eyed the calendar and saw that the deadline for getting licenses is next Monday. What could they do to get the drivers to come on now and not wait for the big rush that always takes place the last day or two.

Then someone had an idea. After all, what does a summer resort that goes on the bum do to win back its customers? Why, it puts on a publicity campaign, of course. It gets pictures of bathing beauties lounging on the beach, throws in a few shots of curvaceous young things riding aquaplanes and what not. That seemed to be the solution. So the highway patrol reached into the purchasing department and drafted pretty Mrs. Marjorie Edwards and arranged for her to perch on a table in a flattering pose and fill out her license blank. The old human interest stuff, you know.

Last reports were that the highway patrol was seriously considering the installation of a first-aid station to administer emergency treatment to the male applicants who are expected to trample each other in getting to the capitol today.

But just in case you want to avoid that rush, you also can get your license at patrol headquarters at the Old Soldiers' Home.

New Contracts For U. S. Depot Are Negotiated

Large Sums Included for Grading, Warehouses, Utilities.

Additional contracts totaling more than $9,000,000 for the Army's mammoth Atlanta General Depot at Conley, Ga.—bringing to $23,000,000 the total money involved in the vast project—were announced here yesterday by Major S. C. MacIntire Jr., Q. M. C., constructing quartermaster.

The additional contracts, which include $4,000,000 for the Motor Transport School, are being negotiated, according to Major MacIntire, and must be awarded before June 30.

Included in the contracts are large sums for such items as grading, warehouses, utilities, administration building, supplementary utility buildings, changes in present warehouse to include a coffee roasting plant, an inspection service for quartermaster stores, such as clothing, etc.

Contract Types.
The types of contracts will be: Negotiated fixed fee (for the Motor Transport School), negotiated lump-sum, and extensions to present contracts.

All of the engineering for the depot is being handled by Robert & Company. All construction will be fireproof and permanent.

The additions make the depot probably the largest general depot in the United States, Major MacIntire said.

Following are new contracts being negotiated:
E. M. Beckham, Perry, Ga., $642,197 for grading, railroads and new classification yards; Espy Construction Company, Savannah, $113,892, water distribution, storm sewers, gas mains and gas distribution for heating purposes; Hugh McMath and Sam Finley, Columbus, $71,241, additional paving; Rogers Electric Company, Birmingham, $7,500, additional electrical distribution; A. K. Adams, Atlanta, $672,000, three-story administration building; Beers Construction Company, Atlanta, $373,000, miscellaneous buildings; Anchor Post Fence Company, Baltimore, $44,200, interior fencing; A. Farnell Blair, Decatur, Ga., $70,700, changes to present warehouses; $210,000, special sheds for Engineer Corps; $500,000, four sheds for Signal Corps; $2,500,000 for 10 additional warehouses 620 feet long by 180 feet wide; Central Construction Company, Atlanta, $4,000,000 for Fourth Echelon Motor Transport School to accommodate two quartermaster maintenance companies of 500 men, 900 students, with faculty and tactical office.

Shops Included.
Buildings in the Fourth Echelon will include shops with modern machine shop equipment, storage sheds, warehouses, barracks, 1,000-man cafeteria style mess hall, recreation buildings, and normal types of buildings for housing troops.

The school will be operated under the direction of the Fourth Echelon Quartermaster, Brigadier General James L. Frink.

The mob began forming shortly after noon yesterday, grew to 500 or 700 persons last night and a section stormed the jail, guarded by half a dozen county officers.

Taken from his cell, the Negro was whisked out of town at the head of a line of some 100 automobiles. About midnight the Negro was returned to the jail where, Lewis said, he is held for grand jury action on a charge of attempted assault.

President F. D. Patterson, of Tuskegee Institute, a keeper of records on lynchings, said as far as he knew the Eastman occurrence was unprecedented.

Blanding Men To Grow 'Distinction' Mustaches
CAMP BLANDING, Fla., June 26.—(P)—All members of headquarters platoon, Company F, 169th Infantry at this big Army training center have agreed to grow mustaches to lend "distinction" to the outfit.

There will be a special inspection each Monday to see that every man is doing his part and that all mustaches conform to a standard style agreed upon by the platoon.

Clark Howell Resigns, Beaver Refuses To Quit Regent's Post

Publisher Expresses Regret for Prior Pledge to Governor.

Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, yesterday resigned as a member of the State Board of Regents upon the request of Governor Talmadge.

In calling for the resignation, the chief executive pointed out that immediately after his inauguration last January, Howell offered to resign whenever it suited the Governor's pleasure. Although he wrote the Governor he would resign, Howell said that "in the light of developments," he regretted he ever made such a commitment.

"I deeply regret that a promise not well considered at the time forces me to retire from a fight which so deeply involves the welfare of my state," Howell said.

He added he was proud of those members of the Board of Regents "who refused to participate in a witch hunt."

Regent Howell first was appointed to the board February 7, 1934, to fill the unexpired term of Hughes Spalding, ending July 1, 1937. Governor Rivers reappointed him March 21, 1937, for

Talmadge Rebukes Arnall for Decision

Governor Talmadge yesterday issued the following statement in reply to a ruling by Attorney General Ellis Arnall that three members of the Board of Regents whom the Governor had asked to resign were still legal members of the board:

"I wish to remind the attorney general the Governor has not called on him for any opinion. The Governor under the law has the sole right to do so before it is binding.

"I am not responsible for the differences of opinion of lawyers. The attorney general is headed in the wrong direction on a one-way street. I am going to stamp out Communism in our educational system, regardless of the lawyers and high-pressure educators."

Board Chairman, Upheld by Arnall, Releases Statement.

By LUKE GREENE.

General Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, yesterday refused to resign as chairman of the State Board of Regents, while Governor Talmadge added new fuel to the regents' row by accepting the resignation of Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, and telling Attorney General Ellis Arnall he was "headed in the wrong direction on a one-way street."

A further complication to the tangled affair came when Governor Talmadge told a reporter he had accepted the resignation of Judge Lucien P. Goodrich, of Griffin, as a member of the Board of Regents, and Judge Goodrich asserted he had neither resigned nor been asked to.

Soviet Cavalry Kills 'Chutists As They Land

Nazi Drive Into Ukraine Beaten Down, Moscow Claims.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Great forces of Russian tanks are waging a violent and winning battle against German tanks in Poland and every Axis attempt to drive into the Ukraine from Rumania by parachute and by the infantry mass has been beaten down, the Soviet military report declared early today.

Red army troops fighting on the plains of old Poland were reported successfully battling a great German tank thrust aimed at Minsk, White Russian capital 160 miles inside Soviet territory.

An undisclosed number of German tanks broke through advance Soviet lines in the north and a war bulletin issued in Moscow said fighting there still was in progress.

Aimed at Ukraine.

In central Poland "violent large-scale engagements of tank troops" also occurred in the direction of Luck. This German thrust apparently was aimed at the Ukraine, and the communique said "fighting continued throughout the day with a manifest advantage for our troops."

The Russian communique was a tale of success from the Polish front to the Black sea; of parachute troops killed as they landed by charging cavalry, of successful raids into German and Rumanian lines, and of fierce bombing attacks of Bucharest, the port of Constanta and the rich Ploesti oil fields of Germany's Rumanian ally.

No Land Action.

Despite that Finland formally arrayed herself beside Germany against Russia, the Russian communique said there was no land action yesterday along the Russian-Finnish frontier.

The wall of air raid alarms sounded repeatedly over Helsinki, Finland's oft-bombed capital, and new swarms of Russian bombs fell on that city's environs soon after President Risto Ryti told the Finns they were at war again against Russia. But this time, he said, it was a defensive war and they were not alone as they were in the winter of 1939-40.

German tactics now familiar to the world—to attempt to gain a foothold behind enemy lines by parachute troops—evoked an energetic and prompt Red army answer, the war report indicated.

Strong Resistance.

"The strongest resistance" is meeting every German attempt to land parachute troops, the communique declared. Local residents are helping round them up and in one instance in the Ukraine—fertile wheat country which Adolf Hitler recently wanted—a Red army cavalry force "immediately attacked and exterminated all the parachutists at the moment of landing."

A scouting force crossed the Prut, took 10 prisoners, captured material and returned safely.

The Red air fleet raids on Rumania left oil refineries in the Ploesti area ablaze, the communique said.

RAF Hurls Greatest Offensive, Controls Western Front Skies

Plunges Into 16th Successive Night of Blasting German Targets Without Sign of Slackening Thunderous Tempo.

LONDON, June 26.—(P)—The Royal Air Force, having gained mastery of the skies over the western front by relentless "round-the-clock" offensives, tonight plunged into its 16th successive night of blasting German targets without sign of slackening the thundering tempo.

During the day the RAF repeatedly raided the invasion coast and Nazi-occupied northern France and reported destruction of nine German fighters. Three British fighters did not return.

In the 10 days ended June 25, the British officially claimed the destruction of 161 German warplanes against a British loss of 66, while in the past six days the Germans lost 108, and the RAF 19 planes, 16 pilots.

Greatest Offensive.
With the Royal Air Force reporting its greatest 24-hour offensive—a rolling assault in which 400 to 500 planes were said to have taken part—British observers were studying new means of striking at the Luftwaffe.

The authoritative magazine aeroplane said the recent RAF initiative was a "valuable element" in lowering morale in the Luftwaffe.

"To force back to the defensive an air force which has known nothing but offensives in war," the magazine said, "is to impose upon it, first, doubts as to its effectiveness and ultimately, by heavy repeated losses, to persuade it of its inferiority."

The article asserted that the RAF has established its supremacy over the French coast up to the present limit of its fighter capacity and "for anything beyond that

Gen. Van Horn, Retired, Dies In California

Officer Formerly Was in Command of Fort McPherson.

Brigadier General Robert O. Van Horn, formerly commander of Fort McPherson, died last night at his home in San Francisco, according to Associated Press advices.

General Van Horn retired from the Army at Fort McPherson last June after a brilliant career of 43 years in the Army.

Enlisting as a private in 1895, General Van Horn worked his way up from the ranks. He saw active service in Cuba, the Philippines, and in France. For his World War service he received the distinguished service medal. He was engaged in the Somme and Meuse Argonne as a colonel in command of the 23rd Infantry.

While at Fort McPherson, General Van Horn was commander of the 82nd Division Reserve Officers, and also commander of the CCC forces "in eight southern states."

In addition to his widow, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. James Y. Adams, of Fort Benning, Ga.

U. S. Will Requisition 12 More Air Transports

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(P)

Twelve more transport planes will be requisitioned from air lines in the United States by the government in the near future, Robert Hinkley, assistant secretary of commerce, said tonight.

Hinkley said he had no information as to the disposition to be made of the planes but that President Roosevelt shortly would sign an executive order acquiring them for use in the national emergency.

U. S. Must Judge War Trends From Official News 'Handouts'

The Russo-Nazi conflict between totalitarian powers which practice complete censorship of the news has forced the American public for the first time to judge the progress of a war solely on the basis of official "handouts" of the warring nations.

Dispatches yesterday from Moscow, however, indicated that country was changing its press regulations to some extent. Soviet officials announced that a government communique would be issued daily in Moscow and for the first time correspondents were told they would get information on important happenings simultaneously with releases to the official Tass News Agency. Previously news was withheld from

DOWN SHE GOES!—It looks simple, this dropping of a 60-ton slab of concrete into place to complete the railroad bridge over Route 42 at the Army's mammoth Atlanta General Depot at Conley, Ga. But it took time—six hours—effort and lots of huffing and puffing from giant cranes to do the job. As this slab was going into place, new contracts for the depot were announced—making $23,000,000 in all for the project, probably the largest quartermaster depot in the U. S. (Additional pictures on Page 2).

Peachtree-Whitehall Parking Proposal Put Off Indefinitely

Business Representatives Are Unaffected by Mayor's Statistics; Doubt Traffic Problem Exists; Buses Are Favored Over Trolleys.

Unswerving opposition of 80 representatives of business establishments affected led the citizens' traffic board to postpone indefinitely yesterday consideration of an informal proposal to make Peachtree-Whitehall street, from Baker to Garnett streets, a completely non-parking thoroughfare from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Summoned to a public hearing of the board so that sentiment could be tested, the businessmen were not moved by statistics recited by Mayor LeCraw that downtown property values had declined in consonance with avoidance of the area by motorists shunning traffic congestion. They declined the mayor's invitation to a 60-day test, and also a one-day check of customers to determine how they arrived at the establishments.

Doubt Problem. Doubt that a traffic problem existed along the thoroughfare was expressed by A. L. Zachry, president, and L. L. Austin, secretary, of the Retail Merchants' Association, while J. F. Allen, former president, went further to declare the question had been "overemphasized and overpublicized."

All of the businessmen favored substitution of buses for street cars, but none would vote for complete removal of mass-transportation facilities from the street. LeCraw said the Georgia Power Company was co-operating with the city in expediting the substitution.

A detailed study presented by the mayor and Marvin Thomas, city traffic engineer, showed that the 271 business establishments fronting the street in the zone averaged less than one parking place each, in contesting the merchants' position that parking was helpful to their business.

Businessmen Represented. Speakers for the businessmen, including William M. Hicks, furniture executive; Walter Thomas, jeweler; J. B. Dennis, clothier; J. A. Peterson, electrical contractor, and Ex-Councilman Charles M. Ford, said that the recently installed nonparking regulations from 7 to 9 a. m. and 4 to 7 p. m. had reduced business volume. A show of hands displayed a willingness to reduce the present one-hour parking privilege to 30 minutes, but the board was informed later by its traffic advisers that this would not improve the situation.

LeCraw announced that loading and unloading spaces for trucks would be inaugurated soon in the area.

The Business Opportunity column in the Want Ads of The Constitution furnishes a fertile field for small investment and profitable effort.

WORK BEGINS—Here a 60-ton slab of concrete is being readied to be moved more than 150 feet to its resting place on the railroad bridge at the Atlanta General Depot at Conley, Ga. The slab was precast, to save time ordinarily taken in erecting forms and filling same with concrete. This meant that Route 42 under the bridge was opened immediately after the slab was placed.

Larger Farm Credits Asked By Paul Brown

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Stressing the effect war embargoes are having on shipments to foreign markets of American agricultural products, Representative Paul Brown, of Georgia, made a strong speech in the house today in favor of continuing lending facilities of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Farmers must have the continued protection of the federal agency, he said, if they are to weather the economic strain of the war.

"The effect of the naval blockades as a result of the war abroad have virtually closed most world markets to American farm products," the Georgia congressman told the lower house. "This has not been true for industrial products of this nation, chiefly because of preferences given in both purchasing and shipping. Factories are running at top speed and employment is on the increase and at somewhat higher wages."

Industry Prospers.

"Exports of nonagricultural products during the period from September to February, 1941, were 62 per cent larger than during the same period in 1938-39."

"These huge economic losses," he added, "are first imposed upon the 23 per cent of the population of this nation that live on farms. These same families have 31 per cent of the children of the nation yet they are receiving only 11 per cent of the national income. Obviously, if farm children are to have the same opportunities in this country as children living in small towns and cities, farm income must be protected and must be increased."

"During the last session of congress, the borrowing power of Commodity Credit Corporation was increased from $900,000,000 to $1,400,000,000. This bill seeks to increase the borrowing power of Commodity Credit Corporation to $2,650,000,000, an increase of $1,250,000,000."

Parity Explained. "Parity is the price farm commodities must bring if the farmers' buying power is to be equal of that prevailing from 1909 to 1914. If the farmer can borrow 85 per cent on the basis commodities, this will give a loan rate of a little over 13 1-2 cents per pound for cotton, 71 cents a bushel for corn, 97 cents a bushel for wheat, 89 cents a bushel for rice, and 20 cents a pound for tobacco."

"The price of the products of the farmer, while fluctuating, has tended down in the last few years, and there has been a great relative increase in the cost of things he buys. We all realize, or should realize, that parity must be the goal of the farmer."

"Of course we may differ in the exact method in achieving parity. The loan amount from the Commodity Credit Corporation on cotton has been increased from 56 per cent to 85 per cent of parity, and the benefit from soil conservation and the regular parity payment added to the 85 per cent will give the farmer practically 16 cents a pound for his cotton."

"Financial panic rarely comes when agricultural interests are prosperous."

Cox Predicts Dire Struggles When War Ends

U. S. To Face Economic, If Not Military Problems, Georgian Says.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) Representative Cox, Democrat, of Georgia, asserted tonight that when the war between Germany and Russia ended "we will again face certain economic, if not military, struggles with the victorious power."

Urging in a Mutual Broadcasting System radio speech a speeding up of the national defense program and a reduction in non-defense expenditures, the Georgian declared:

"We must not, we dare not, forget that we must continue to live as a nation and a people after the national defense is achieved and after the wars have ended."

"Every dollar that can be saved in governmental operations now in the nondefense activities will be a dollar less in a burden which in those days to come may prove well-nigh insupportable for our people. The congress and the people must see to it that in seeking to maintain and perpetuate liberty for others in the world, we do not lose our own liberty and become the victims of some form of abhorrent absolutism."

Cox said that many persons "who are determined to change our form of government have swarmed into the offices of the government to bore from within like so many termites" and "conjure up alleged gifts for the people."

"These pollute the channels of public information," he said, "with destructive propaganda. These subversive elements are getting in their deadly work of undermining home rule and local self-government by promises of federal aid. That federal aid is always conditioned upon a surreptitious federal control."

WANT TARGET CHANGE.

Usual Number Of Polio Cases Within State

11 Paralysis Attacks Reported in Georgia During June.

Recording only 11 cases of infantile paralysis in Georgia so far in June, the State Health Department said today the situation was "not at all out of line" with the average for this time of year.

"Certainly there is nothing to be alarmed about," said Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, assistant director of the department. He added, however, that general precautionary measures were advisable.

Of the 11 Georgia cases, there were in Fulton county, two in Cook and Gwinnett and one each in Haralson, Muscogee, Upson and Walton. Since the start of the year, 22 cases have been reported in the state. None was recorded in April or May.

Bowdoin pointed out that the incidence of the disease usually was greater in hot weather and that the number of Georgia cases probably would increase in July and August.

Although a good many cases have been reported in many Florida cities, including Pensacola, Bowdoin said nothing indicated that the disease was spreading into Georgia.

Because doctors are not fully familiar with the disease and how it is transmitted, Dr. Bowdoin said that only general precautionary advice could be given.

He recommended children be kept out of crowds and swimming pools, that persons avoid if possible communities where the disease is known to exist and that extra care be taken to assure that foods and drinks be prepared under sanitary conditions.

8 U. S. Steamship Companies Agree To Slash in Subsidy Rate

Disadvantages Normally Experienced by American Operators Do Not Exist at Present, Commission Holds.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Eight American steamship companies engaged in foreign trade under operating-differential agreements with the Maritime Commission have voluntarily agreed to a reduction in their subsidy rates to a "comparatively nominal figure," the commission announced today.

BOMBER—Pilot Officer Holbrook Van Dyke Bonney, former Atlantan, now flying an American-made Sterling bomber with the Royal Air Force.

H.V.D. Bonney, 'Self-Sacrifice' Ex-Atlantan, Urged by Pope Flies Bomber In Broadcast

George Battey's Nephew Given Higher Rank With RAF.

Holbrook Van Dyke Bonney, former Atlantan and nephew of George and Adrienne Battey, has been advanced to the rank of pilot officer and commands one of the Sterling bombers, America's latest weapon for the RAF, it was disclosed in a letter received yesterday from his mother, the former Mary Battey, now the wife of Sir Charles Marston, English industrialist.

She described his recent meeting with the King and Queen and the two princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, at a special inspection.

"All one afternoon the little girls went in and out every detail of the different planes, asking the crews a million questions about the fascinating details of these lovely 'birds.' They were not quite old enough to be interested in the dashing young men."

"The King and Queen were much more interested in the men and gave each pilot and other officers very special attention."

Of the pilot's deadly occupation, Lady Marston wrote: "The nerve strain is terrific."

Bonney, son of the late George Bonney, of Atlanta and New York, was a member of the Wellcome-Marston archeological expedition to Palestine. He was in New York when the war began and went at once to England to enlist. As an American he joined the American Eagle Squadron of the RAF.

Contract Viewed By Atlanta Firms

Three Atlanta contractors probably will be awarded the contract for the $15,000,000 Army Air Repair Depot at Wellston, near Macon, it was learned last night.

The contractors, the Mion Construction Company, the Griffin Construction Company, and the W. C. Shepherd Construction Company, are equipped to do all the work required on the project, it was said.

Charles Mion, head of the company bearing his name, left last night for Washington to confer with Army officials about the contract.

Mion said tentative plans worked out call for the Mion and Griffin company to do the actual construction work, while the Shepherd company will do all necessary grading.

The contracts will be formally awarded Monday, it was said.

Catholics End Huge Congress In Minnesota

Thousands Receive Mass at 2-Mile Procession of Sacrament.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 26.—(AP)—The ninth National Eucharistic Congress ended late today with thousands in the church center at the Minnesota fairgrounds humbly receiving from the personal representative of Pope Pius XII the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

A weather break that came an hour before the last spectacle of the four-day congress began—the two-mile procession of the blessed sacrament—saved scores of thousands along the line of march from a heat wave such as exhausted many at Wednesday's pontifical mass for children.

Skies that clouded up in the late morning let loose a deluge of rain about 1 p. m. that knocked temperatures in the sun at the fairgrounds from about 100 down to 75 degrees. Thousands standing in open areas along the procession line were drenched.

Officials of the Roman Catholic church said 80,000 made the two-mile march from Comb park to the great altar in the Baldachin at the fairgrounds despite the rain.

The men and women in the opening tableau of the procession had been caught in the heavy downpour, and their hair matted about their faces from the rain, and their clothing, streaked and soggy, added touchingly to the theme of sacrifice for Christ upon which the congress was assembled.

As the assembled thousands answered the prayers of the papal legate, the cardinal arose before the altar, raised the great silver monstrance in the sign of the cross and blessed them with the sacred host, the solemn benediction and last act of the congress, performed as thousands knelt bareheaded in a steady rain.

South Carolina Girl Wins California Violin Contest

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP)—Twenty-four-year-old Elizabeth Carroll Glenn, of Chester, S. C., won the violin contest, a $1,000 award and a New York concert appearance last night in the young artists' competition at the National Federation of Music Clubs convention.

Miss Glenn will appear in New York under auspices of the Schubert Memorial Association.

Scarborough's Kin Accused Of Tampering

Judge Hendrix Orders Arrest of Summers in Flogging Case.

Glenn Summers, East Point barber and nephew of Warren W. Scarborough, charged with flogging citizens in the southern section of Fulton county, yesterday was ordered arrested and to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for an alleged "deliberate attempt to obstruct justice" by trying to tamper with a jury called to try Scarborough.

Judge Walter C. Hendrix, of Fulton superior court, signed the order which was presented to him by Solicitor General John A. Boykin and Assistant Solicitor Daniel Duke.

According to allegations, Summers tried to contact Hubert Dodson, of Stonewall, Ga., when Dodson was called to serve as juror for the week of March 24, this year. The contention is that Summers went to Dodson's home and told Mrs. Dodson that he wished to tell Dodson the truth about an old charge against Scarborough because, Summers said, it was to be injected into Scarborough's second trial.

Scarborough went on trial on March 26 and won a second mistrial with Dodson serving on the jury, court officials recalled.

Scarborough is a former exalted cyclops of the East Point Ku Klux Klan.

Latin Affection for U. S. Reported by Fairbanks

MIAMI, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—Young Douglas Fairbanks, special envoy of President Roosevelt, reported tonight that he found in South America "a terrific desire on the part of the people for co-operation with the United States."

The motion picture actor flew here by Pan American stratosphere after a two-month tour of Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia and the Panama Canal Zone.

"There is a great affection for the United States," he told reporters.

Naturalization Is Deferred for War Objector

Mother of Non-Saluting Student Here Refuses To Take Oath.

Naturalization for a member of the religious sect of Jehovah's Witnesses was held in abeyance yesterday because the petitioner, Mrs. George Leoles, declined to take the oath of allegiance to this country with respect to "defending the country in case of war."

Mrs. Leoles, a native of Greece, appeared before District Judge E. Marvin Underwood during citizenship proceedings for more than 25 persons.

"I understand that the only trouble with your petition is your refusal to take the oath pledging to defend this country in the event of war," said Judge Underwood.

Mrs. Leoles appeared rather bewildered, and her husband stepped forward, saying, "We are willing to defend the constitution, but we refuse to bear guns and kill people."

Judge Underwood said that he was in sympathy with the petitioner's "conscientious attitude on religious grounds," but that the issue had been decided in other cases by the supreme court.

J. H. Halstead, examiner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, told Judge Underwood that "Mrs. Leoles' attitude was so definite in respect to war, that it was mandatory upon him to request the petition be denied."

However, Judge Underwood said he would hear the petition again in January, as he wanted "time to study the supreme court cases in detail."

The Leoles family figured in the news several years ago when their daughter, Dorothy, declined to salute the American flag in public school and was expelled by the Atlanta board of education. The case went to the supreme court, which sustained the board of education, but the matter was not one for federal action.

War Progress Must Be Seen From Handouts

lie have increased, since it now must sift the truth from rival propagandas.

Daring and ingenuity of American correspondents thus far in the conflict have resulted in sending back a remarkably complete picture of all developments of the war.

But newspapermen in both Germany and Russia are not permitted to witness or to report in their own language incidents of the war.

Germany forces radio commentators to prepare scripts in advance for their broadcasts and submit them to a censor. A censor sits beside them at the microphone to see that they follow the approved scripts exactly and do not use inflection to impart a different meaning to their words.

Russia banned all radio news broadcasts about two years ago. The National Broadcasting Company still keeps a representative, Herman Habicht, in Moscow, but it has not received a broadcast from this commentator since Howard Hughes flew across Russia during his round-the-world flight in July, 1938.

Important Thing. Virtually all nations at war exercise some censorship, but the important thing from a war correspondent's viewpoint is whether or not he is permitted to follow the nation's army into battle and then report the development of the campaign from the scene without too much interference from the censor.

That is the type of coverage that the American public before has always received. Even with Germany barring reporters from the front, except for "guided" tours during which they are allowed to see exactly nothing, newspapermen have been able to follow the course of previous campaigns in the present war from behind the lines of Axis opponents.

Virtually Certain.

The Nazis are virtually certain to maintain their policy of barring neutral correspondents from the scenes of battles. Russia, during the war with Finland, refused all requests to permit American newspapermen to accompany the Red army.

The result promises to take much of the difficulty as well as the glamor out of the war correspondent's job. Much of the difficulty has involved the maintenance of communications, which in the present Russo-German war presents few problems. Both Berlin and Moscow have direct and ample communication facilities by wireless and telephone with New York.

Heavy Rain Causes Big Damage Here

Monday afternoon's "gutter washing" rain, will cost the city from $15,000 to $20,000, Councilman John A. White, chairman of council's finance committee, announced yesterday.

The rushing waters undermined the north approach to the Edgewood avenue viaduct, and it must be completely reconstructed, Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction says.

White announced he will ask council to provide the necessary funds at its meeting, July 7.

"If that approach was weak, it may be a blessing in disguise that the rain came, and made that weakness visible," White said. "We might have had a very serious accident if the approach had just given away suddenly."

Ben Shafer Found Guilty For 2d Time

Court Gives Grocer Life Sentence for Frasier Murder.

Ben Shafer, Campbellton road grocer, yesterday was found guilty for the second time of murdering Aubrey Frasier, Fulton county policeman, on Christmas eve, 1939, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Judge Paul S. Etheridge, of Fulton superior court, passed sentence soon after the jury, which deliberated its verdict for 24 hours, was polled at the insistence of defense counsel.

When Shafer heard the court's sentence it was the second time he has been given life in connection with the killing. Shafer won a second trial when he appealed the first verdict to the state supreme court.

The state contended Shafer killed Frasier when the officer, in plain clothes, attempted to raid Shafer's store for alleged illegal liquor. Shafer held that Frasier invaded his home, which is in the back part of the store, and that when he tried to get Frasier out Frasier attacked him. He said he fired on Frasier in self-defense.

George Manley, Shafer's attorney, said he will appeal the verdict.

Decatur Youths To Hold Outing

Young people of Decatur will be guests at the annual outing of the Decatur Young People's Church Union, beginning at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Decatur city auditorium, it was announced yesterday.

The group will go in a motorcade to Oakhill springs, nearly three miles east of Lithonia, where a program of sports will be held, followed by a picnic.

Some 50 cadets from the naval air base at Camp Gordon will be special guests.

Climaxing the program will be a devotional program led by Ned Iverson, city recreational director, and stunts by each church group, with a silver trophy going to the winner of the competition.

READYING ATLANTA'S NEWEST—The beautiful Grove theater, recently completed at a cost of approximately $60,000, will swing open its doors tonight with a big, top-flight schedule of attractions booked for the coming season. The modern building is located at 1576 Bankhead avenue. Workmen are shown putting on finishing touches yesterday for tonight's ceremonies.

Atlanta's New Defense Labor Board Will Be Organized Here

Modern Suburban Show House Was Erected at Cost of $60,000.

The Grove theater, Atlanta's newest motion picture house, will open with brief ceremonies tonight, Manager Wendell Welsh announced yesterday.

Located at 1576 Bankhead avenue, the Grove is one of the finest and most modern of the city's suburban theaters, and cost approximately $60,000 to erect.

Possessing a modernistic front with a late type marquee, the Grove's modernizing has been extended to include its screen and sound equipment.

The edifice will have accommodations for 618 persons, and the management has booked for the opening attraction tonight, Universal's "One Night in the Tropics," with Abbott and Costello.

Manager Welsh announces he has booked a season of top-ranking theatrical performances and well balanced daily programs for the Grove's patrons.

To give employment and to get employment, A Want Ad in The Constitution is equally effective in both cases.

Preston S. Arkwright, Marion Smith To Head Group.

Organization of a labor mediation board to compose local differences between employers and employees and to prevent stoppage of work on defense projects and in defense industries will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the city hall.

Mayor LeCraw already has designated Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, and Marion Smith, attorney, as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the group.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has selected four of six members to act for employers as follows: R. H. White, W. J. Cordes, John E. Smith and George Winship. Two other members will be added later.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades has selected Paul Chipman, William Van Houten, Albert Gossett, William Kemp and E. L. Abercrombie as its representatives, and LeCraw will submit a list of six nominated by CIO to form panels to consider problems involving that organization.

Wayne Morris Leaves Films To Become Ensign

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 26.—Actor Wayne Morris left the movies for at least a year and became an ensign in the procurement division of the Naval Aviation Reserve today.

Morris is engaged to marry Patricia Stewart, of Atlanta, when his divorce becomes final.

But how changed the scene in this year of grace, 1871! Through the goodness of God in giving us great natural advantages, and through the enterprise and indomitable industry of our citizens, who, under the most appalling discouragements, have manfully struggled to rebuild the waste places, we have a scene of prosperity far more wonderful than the desolations of war, more difficult to describe, and scarcely possible to realize.

Kelly Demands No War Goods For Russians,

Legion Official Urges Armed Might To Protect Shipping.

The United States should give all-out aid to Britain and protect shipping for freedom of the seas but no war materials to Russia, J. Pat Kelly, Georgia national executive committee member of the American Legion, yesterday wired Milo J. Warner, national commander.

has launched its war-wagon against the Reds. Kelly replied he ordinarily favored "furnishing weapons to one brigand to slay another," but that in this case he thought it "highly inadvisable to give direct aid to Russia in the form of war materials and supplies under the lend-lease law."

"I wish to reaffirm my previous position that we should not only fully protect our shipping on the high seas but should place our armed might behind our traditional policy of freedom of the seas for our commerce carried on under international law, as interpreted by our State Department. Our ships should be adequately protected wherever they might sail in conformity with international law and our treaties with foreign powers," Kelly concluded.

ALUMINUM DRIVE IN EARNEST—Mrs. L. M. Clarkson, of 32 Maddox drive, seemed a little perturbed at visiting Scouts' search for aluminum. All she could say was—"Well." She must have wondered if they were garnering her best new cooking utensils, but they weren't. The Boy Scouts of Atlanta are sweeping the town to gather the scrap metal and they know that it must be discarded material. The extensive 11-county-wide drive which began Monday will sweep all the Atlanta area of the Boy Scout Council. The boys are Larry Freeman, left, and Tommy Stubbs, both members of Troop No. 60.

State troops are trying to figure out who was who in a collision of two automobiles at Cortland, N. Y. The driver of one machine was Donald Fox, 17. His passenger was Donald Fox, 17.

Wesley Union Meets Sunday Near Millen

Program Will Be Given at Habersham Methodist Church.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEN, Ga., June 26.—The Wesley Young People's Union will meet at Habersham Methodist church, near Millen, in Jenkins county, next Sunday for an all-day meeting.

The Wesley Union is comprised of members of the youth divisions of the Methodist churches of Millen, Waynesboro, Bethany, Bethesda, Sardis, Girard and Rockville.

Billy Edenfield, of Millen, is president of the union, and Miss Betty Strozier, of Millen, is secretary-treasurer.

Speakers on the program will include Miss Jane Mulkey, of Millen, who was the delegate from the Union at the young people's assembly at Wesleyan College June 6-12.

Other assembly delegates who will bring reports are Edward Sheppard, Edward Reeves and Miss Nell Brannen, of Millen, and Miss Nan Herrington, of Sardis.

Conference officers of the youth people's division of the South Georgia Conference who will speak during the day are: Edward Carruth, of Collegeboro, president of the youth division of the South Georgia Conference; Osgood Shearouse, of Guyton, president of the youth division of the Savannah district; Jimmy Varnell, of Springfield, vice president of the South Georgia division; M. W. Bragg, Jr., of Springfield, past treasurer of the South Georgia division, and the Rev. Jake L. Hillis, pastor of the Millen Methodist church.

Lunch will be spread at noon, picnic style, on the church grounds.

Women's Service Registration Set

Registration of Atlanta women for emergency services will be started next Monday by the Atlanta unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services, organized here last Monday night.

Facilities will be maintained indefinitely at Rich's, Davidson's, the Georgian Terrace hotel, headquarters of the Business and Professional Women's Club and in Decatur.

Each person will be classified according to her training and abilities.

The organization is modeled upon the lines of a British organization, which, in turn, used the American Red Cross civilian emergency service set-up as a model.

Tierney Parents Denied Petition on Film Contract

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 26. (P)—Superior Court Judge Robert L. Munger today denied a petition by the parents of Gene Tierney, glamorous society film star, for a temporary injunction seeking to restrain 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation from signing a contract with their daughter as an individual.

The court, in dismissing the petition, which also asked $50,000 damages, suggested that the action was one for breach of contract rather than for an injunction.

J. Kenneth Bradley, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Tierney, the parents, indicated that the fight would be carried to federal courts.

U. S. Plane Fleet Ferried Via Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—

(P)—A small fleet of American planes has been ferried across the Pacific ocean for delivery to the British at Manila, Clyde Pangborn, prominent American aviator, said yesterday on his return from the Philippines by boat.

Captain Bernt Balchen, who flew with Admiral Richard Byrd across the Atlantic in 1927, said that after flying at least a dozen war planes across the Atlantic for air service with Great Britain "if Uncle Sam doesn't call me first," Balchen, a native of Norway, is a naturalized American.

Winners in Safety Contest Will Meet

Finalists in the Ford Good Drivers League from over the entire state will assemble at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Biltmore hotel for a banquet sponsored by the National Edsel Ford Good Drivers League.

Governor Talmadge will make the awards to winners, who will win valuable college scholarships up to $5,000, trophies, and free trips to Dearborn, Mich., site of the 1941 Good Drivers national finals.

The contest is sponsored by Edsel Ford for safe driving among high school boys and girls all over the country.

Lifeguard for a Day Has His Big Chance

NEWINGTON, Conn., June 26. (P)—Red-headed Jimmy Welch, 17-year-old soda jerk, has tried for a long while to get the job as life guard at the swimming pool in Churchill Park, but has been passed over because of his lack of experience.

Jimmy thrilled yesterday when he was hired just for the afternoon while the regular guard took a few hours off.

On the job but a few minutes, he saw a bather in distress. Jimmy dragged him ashore and administered artificial respiration as he had learned at the Y. M. C. A.

The half-drowned man—who identified himself as Leonard Drouillette, 21, of Richmond, Va.—revived and was allowed to go home.

CHICKEN is wonderful eating. What else need be said of it when the very mention of chicken conjures up visions of golden brown drumsticks and juicy wishbones (which are pulled to see whose wish comes true) or a whole fowl stuffed and roasted and looking as if it might burst with its goodness, reposing on the best platter? Or chicken and dumplings for Sunday dinner, the whole family in best bib and tucker around the table? Or what of chicken pie where juicy morsels in thick gravy simmer beneath a rich crust? As soon as I'm through with this I shall dash out to eat some chicken. But it's not yet dinner time and I'll struggle along with the appetite while I give you some tips and directions on the gentle art of cooking chicken.

Let's begin with fried chicken which may be pan fried, deep fried or oven fried, first being coated with crumbs, flour, cornmeal or batter, as suits your fancy. Pan Fried Chicken With Flour or Cornmeal Coating.

Clean and wash, but do not dry chicken. In a paper bag put 1 cup flour, or 1-2 cup flour and 1-2 cup cornmeal and 1 tablespoon salt. Place a few pieces at a time in the bag and shake to coat. In frying pan put enough shortening or oil to make about 1-2 inch. Place chicken in hot fat and brown on all sides, cooking at a moderate heat. Reduce heat, cover the pan and continue cooking until chicken is tender. Frying at moderate heat, keeps the chicken moist, too fast frying will make it dry.

Egg and Crumb Coating.
To 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs or cracker crumbs add 1 tablespoon salt. Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon cold water. Dip chicken in crumbs, then in egg, again in crumbs and fry as directed above. Flour may be substituted for the crumbs.

Giblets.
If you're frying the gizzard and

'Anything, So It's Chicken,' The Family Says

heart, simmer them first until almost tender before coating and frying. The liver requires only a few minutes of cooking and should be put into the frying pan just before the other pieces are done.

Oven Frying.
Oven frying, as it is called, is especially convenient when several chickens are to be fried. Coat the chicken as for pan frying and brown in skillet. As the pieces are browned place them in a large casserole which has a tight-fitting cover. When all chicken is browned cover casserole, place in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, and allow about one hour for chicken to be deliciously tender. Make cream gravy from pan drippings.

Deep Fried Chicken.
Make batter of 1 cup sifted flour 1-2 teaspoons salt 1 egg, beaten 3-4 cup milk 1-8 teaspoon pepper
Dip pieces of chicken in batter and fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees. Medium sized fryers will require about 20 to 30 minutes cooking in deep fat.

Roast Chicken.
Clean and singe a two or three-pound chicken. Remove pin feathers. Wash and wipe it clean. Stuff and truss it. Rub the outer surface of the chicken with a mixture of flour and softened butter, salt and pepper, and place it in a roasting pan with a little chicken fat or bacon drippings. Place in a hot oven (450 degrees). When the bird is well browned on one side, baste well with its fat and turn it over on the other side so as to brown it well all over, adding a little water if there should not be sufficient fat to baste it. Reduce the heat to 350 degrees and keep on basting it until the chicken is well browned and tender. A chicken weighing 3 pounds takes about 40 minutes to roast.

Bread Stuffing.
3 cups soft bread crumbs (may be mixed wheat bread and corn bread)
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon thyme or marjoram or sage
1-3 cup butter, melted
Mix bread crumbs, seasonings, and onion; add butter slowly, tossing lightly with a fork until blended. Approximate yield: 3 1-2 cups stuffing, or enough for 1 (5 lb.) bird.

Celery-Bread Stuffing.
1-3 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1-1-2 cups soft bread crumbs
1-3 cup evaporated milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Saute celery and onion in butter about 5 minutes; remove from heat and add crumbs, evaporated milk and seasonings, mixing well. Approximate yield: 1 3-4 cups stuffing.

Chicken Fricassee.
Brown pieces of chicken (a larger chicken may be used for this than for frying) in shortening, fat or oil, remove from pan and place in casserole. Make a cream gravy from the drippings, adding thyme or other seasonings, and pour over the chicken in the dish. Cover tightly and place in the oven an hour or until tender. For variety try pouring a wineglass of sherry over the chicken a few minutes before removing from the oven.

Cream Gravy.
Stir 3 tablespoons flour into 3 tablespoons drippings, blend and brown. Add slowly 2 cups boiling water or stock from giblets and cook slowly until thickened, stirring to keep smooth. Use milk or light cream for part of stock, if desired.

Giblet Gravy.
Add finely chopped, cooked, steamed or baked giblets to 1 or 2 cups chicken gravy, made as above.

Here's a Hearty Casserole

Most entertaining in summer is casual and informal. Spur-of-the-moment supper parties after a swim or ride are the rule of the day. These quick meals can be as much fun for the hostess as for the guests if she knows a number of substantial casseroles which are easy to prepare and that are substantial and filling. In other words, a casserole to be the main dish, must have something in it "to put your teeth into." Here is one that answers this description, fully:

Sturdy Casserole.
2 1-2 cups uncooked macaroni, broken up
2 cups pearl onions
1 tablespoon butter
3 cups canned tomatoes
4 cups cubed roast pork (solid meat from shoulder is good)
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Cook onions in butter in a skillet until tender. Add remaining ingredients, pour over macaroni and mix thoroughly. Turn into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 40 minutes or until done. Serves six generously.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

Tomatoes make a colorful salad when stuffed with meat or fish. They're good, too, and here's a particularly tasty variation for stuffing.

Stuffed Tomatoes.
1 can tuna fish
1-2 cup finely diced celery
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup mayonnaise
6 small tomatoes
Lettuce
1 tablespoon capers
Cut tuna fish into pieces and mix with celery, green pepper, salt and mayonnaise. Hollow out the tomatoes and stuff with tuna fish mixture. Arrange the stuffed tomatoes on lettuce and garnish with capers. This serves six.

Created for southern tastes: fresh peach shortcake.

Fresh Peach Shortcake

The peach season is with us once again, offering opportunity for many delicious fruit desserts. Aside from fresh sliced peaches and cream and the popular peach cobbler, probably no dessert is better liked than peach shortcake. Certainly none is more beautiful and glamorous. Following is an easy recipe for making peach shortcake, with a cake batter. If desired a slightly sweetened and very short biscuit dough may be used as foundation.

Peach Shortcake.
1-3 cup shortening
2-3 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
Cream shortening and sugar until light; add egg, well beaten, then milk and flavoring. Last, add flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Beat thoroughly and turn into two layer pans or square cake pan. Put layers together with sweetened peaches, garnish with large pieces of fruit (which have been dipped in lemon or pineapple juice to prevent discoloration) and whipped cream.

Refrigerator Rolls.

Submitted by Miss Kathryn Moore,
White, Ga., Route 1.
3-4 cups milk, scalded.
1-4 cup sugar.
3 tablespoons shortening.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cake compressed yeast.
1-4 cup lukewarm water.
1 egg slightly beaten.
3 1-2 cups sifted flour.
Pour milk over sugar, shortening, and salt in mixing bowl, cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water, add egg and mix well. Add to milk mixture. Add about 1-2 of flour, beat thoroughly. Add remaining flour, and mix well. Place dough in greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place for about one hour. Punch down, grease top of dough slightly and cover top of bowl with waxed paper or a towel tied securely. Store in refrigerator until needed.
About 2 1-2 hours before baking, take from refrigerator amount of dough needed for rolls. Shape

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1941.

Chicken, any style, meets with enthusiastic approval. But you can't beat it for taste and popularity when fried to a golden brown. This young lady is showing how to pan-fry chicken. Don't you hope she makes plenty of cream gravy?

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Use these for luncheon sandwiches to serve at home or to fill the picnic basket.

Veal or Lamb Special.—Put cold roast lamb or veal through the food chopper and mix with one-fourth as much finely cut celery, salt and pepper to season and just enough salad dressing to moisten. Spread one slice of bread lightly with butter, then with currant or cranberry jelly and then with a thick layer of the meat. Add a little shredded lettuce and cover with the second slice of bread. Use white or brown bread or a slice of each.

Cottage Cheese Combinations.—Mix equal parts cottage cheese and mashed stewed apricots and spread on nut bread. Or mix two parts cottage cheese with chopped raisins, sliced spring onions, salt, pepper and a little salad dressing. Spread on rye bread.

Liver Paste.—Run cooked liver through the food chopper, moisten with salad dressing and add one part finely cut celery and one part chopped crisp bacon to three parts liver. Spread on white or rye bread.

Spinach Salad.—Wash thoroughly, drain and shred tender raw spinach leaves to make 1 1-2 cups. Mix with one chopped hard-cooked egg, a little grated onion, salt, pepper and enough boiled dressing or mayonnaise to make of a spreading consistency.

Cheese and Egg Spread.—Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 teaspoon grated onion and cook slowly for half a minute, then add 1 1-2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard or 1 tablespoon prepared mustard and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Mix well, then stir in 1 cup evaporated milk and continue stirring until thickened and boiling. Remove from the fire, add 1-2 pounds American cheese grated or cut in small pieces and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Stir until the cheese melts, returning to the fire if necessary. Finally stir in 2 finely chopped hard cooked eggs and let the mixture cool. Spread between slices of hot toast or of bread or make toasted or grilled sandwiches with the filling. Will keep if stored in the icebox.

Vita-Filling.—Mix together 1-2 cup each finely chopped raw cabbage, raw carrots and chopped salted peanuts, then add 1-4 cup chopped seeded raisins and about 2 tablespoons boiled salad dressing or enough to moisten. Spread on white or brown bread and add shredded lettuce if you like.

Sunday Afternoon Tea Sandwiches are fine with this filling: 1/2 cup grated or finely shredded Brazil nuts mixed with 1-2 cup apricot or pineapple jam and 1-4 cup very finely cut celery. Spread on thin slices buttered white bread.

A good salad for luncheon or to use for a picnic meal—cut raw bacon in small dice. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion and fry until brown. Add 1 teaspoon curry powder and 1-2 cup tomato pulp or 1-4 cup tomato catsup. Cook 2 or 3 minutes, add 3 cups cold, baked beans, mix well and turn into a ring mold. Chill, and turn out on lettuce.

Baked Bean Salad.
Chill canned baked beans, then drain off as much of the juice as possible. Mix the beans with 1-2 cup finely cut celery, 1 tablespoon shredded green pepper and 1-4 cup mayonnaise for each 2 1-2 to 3 cups beans. Arrange in a mound on crisp lettuce and surround with segments of chilled, peeled tomatoes.

Plum Nectar Berry Float.
3 cups chilled plum nectar
1 1-2 cups crushed sweetened raspberries or blackberries
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Combine nectar and berries and stir to blend. Pour into six or eight tall glasses and add ice cream by large spoonfuls; do not stir. This recipe may be varied by the substitution of apricot, peach-nectar, pear or peach nectar of the whole-fruit variety.

Cheese Rarebit, Shrimp

Cheese rarebit makes a perfect Sunday night supper dish, for it's simple to prepare and serve. It's filling, too, so it can be the main dish of the meal.

Cheese Rarebit With Shrimps.
1 pound American cheese (cut in pieces)
1-3 cup rich milk
1-3 cup sherry
Heat cheese and milk in double boiler. Gradually add the wine and the seasonings. Stir and heat until all the cheese is melted and the mixture is smooth. Then add the shrimps. Serve very hot with crisp, hot toast points.

Rarebit with shrimps is good supper dish. To keep it piping hot serve it in individual casseroles, as shown.

Facing Murder Trial, Hangs Self in Jail

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—Apparently fearful of a trial for murder in Louisiana which the Tennessee supreme court had said he must face, William Ernest

Brown, 45-year-old convicted mail robber, hanged himself in his Davidson county jail cell early today.

His body, suspended by a sheet from the top of his cell door, was found by Turnkey J. C. Price only a few hours before Brown was to have been turned over to New Orleans authorities who had charged him with the strangulation slaying of Bertrand Ader, 70, a retired undertaker, there last January 24.

Steamship Line Will Cut Freight Run Frequency
CHARLESTON, S. C., June 26. (AP)—George J. Horner, assistant to the vice president of the Clyde-Mallory Steamship Lines, announced here today that beginning July 10 the company would curtail its freight service from New York to Charleston by operating one steamer every 10 days instead of two a week as at present.

Honor Soldiers To Be 'Kings' For Weekend

City Will Open Arms to 6 Men From South-eastern Camps.

Catching the spirit of U. S. O., four Atlanta business leaders have developed a plan which will give outstanding soldiers in near-by training camps not only "some place to go," but something to talk about until they're tottering veterans.

Each week, as long as the emergency lasts, six enlisted men, selected by their personnel officers on the basis of military record, traits of character and other qualifications, will be brought to Atlanta and entertained on a scale befitting a full general. They may be privates or corporals or sergeants, in camp, but for a weekend in the city they'll be "ambassadors" of the new Army.

The first detachment will be brought here from Camp McClellan, Ala., July 4. On the following weekends, men selected from other camps in Alabama, Georgia and

Doctor Speeds On Call, Picks Up Big Crowd

Motorists Join Police in Chase Down the Peachtrees

Aid, and plenty of it, was rushed to two young men who fell from the porch of a garage apartment on Twenty-fifth street, last night.

Seeing them fall, a friend put in an emergency call for a physician.

Fearing that the men were badly injured and needed immediate aid, the physician broke speed laws as he drove out West Peachtree and Peachtree street en route to the scene of the accident.

Near West Peachtree and Fifth street, the speeding physician attracted the attention of two motorcycle policemen who, with sirens open, gave chase.

Ignoring the policemen the physician sped up a little more. As they turned into Peachtree street, about a dozen motorists and two radio police cars had joined in the procession. With the reinforcements strung out behind them, the motorcycle officers added another burst of speed to their cycles and succeeded in blocking the physician as he turned into Twenty-fifth street.

The doctor soon told them he was on an emergency call, and the motorcycle officers then escorted him to the scene of the accident.

Arriving at the apartment, they found the two young men brushing off their clothes and nursing bruises about the head. The policemen, all qualified in rendering first aid to injured people, left the two patients in care of the physician and rendered first aid to the traffic congestion on Twenty-fifth street, caused by the motorists who had joined in the pursuit.

Key West Mob Beats Defense Job Workers

Hooded Men Threaten Others on Housing Project.

KEY WEST, Fla., June 26.—(UP)—A mob of approximately 200 hooded men were reported to have beaten two carpenters and threatened others at the sleeping quarters of a defense housing project here early today.

Edward Walker, building superintendent, said the white-hooded men came to the workers' barracks brandishing guns, clubs and rocks. He said two carpenters, Fred Nunnally and W. Parry, ran for their car and attempted to flee towards Miami.

Walker said some of the men fired shots at the two men, later caught them on the Overseas highway connecting this island to the mainland, and beat them.

Late tonight, Lester Preu Jr., son of the owner of the construction company and who was here when the attack took place, said in his Miami home that he believed the white-hooded men were labor agitators.

Charles Evans Dies Here at 47

Charles Evans, 47, president of the Evans Metal Company, died last night at his home, 3800 Club drive.

Returning home from his office late yesterday afternoon, Evans was stricken a short time later. He lived about three hours after the attack.

For many years Evans was the local representative of the National Lead Company. About two years ago he organized his own company. He was widely known in local business circles.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Charles C. Evans, and his father, C. L. V. Evans, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Roosevelt Accepts Schram's Resignation

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt formally accepted today the resignation of Emil Schram as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and said his qualities of integrity, vision and fidelity to public interest would give him "exceptional equipment for constructive service" as president of the New York Stock Exchange.

$4,200,000
Air School for Mississippi2,800 Officers, Cadets
To Be Stationed at Columbus.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) Tentative selection of Columbus, Miss., for an air corps pilot training school to cost approximately $4,200,000 was announced today by the War Department.

The selection was said to be subject to satisfactory negotiations for the necessary real estate. The department added that a training school of the type contemplated would mean that approximately 2,800 officers, cadets and enlisted men would be stationed there.

Nine squadron administration buildings, six operations buildings, five warehouses, two administration buildings, two recreation buildings, and such structures as officers' quarters, guard house, hospital, chapel, radio control tower, hangar and theater are planned.

"My wife can use a few pointers, too, Sergeant."

The War Department yesterday announced awarding of the following contracts: Stillwell Construction Company, Macon, $24,000 for construction of regimental chapel and recreation buildings at Fort Screven, and $995,470 to Espy Paving and Construction Company, Savannah, for construction of shiploading dock, railroad approach and ordnance depot at Charleston, S. C.

HOLLAND LAUDS ATLANTA

SPARE PARTS DEPOT

Colonel Thomas L. Holland, commanding officer of the Atlanta Quartermaster depot, Wednesday addressed the Lions Club at La Grange, and stated that "the largest automotive spare parts, tools and equipment installation in the United States is located in the Atlanta depot."

Colonel Holland said that at least 40 per cent of the stockpile of spare automotive parts for the entire Army is located in the depot here, a figure representing "probably the largest accumulation of such supplies in the world."

Red Tape Cut
In Big Lumber
Deal for ArmyContracts for 22,000,- 000 Feet Are Let in Tampa Session.

TAMPA, June 26.—(AP)—The Army bought 22,000,000 feet of lumber here today for about $600,000 in one of its streamlined bid openings which cut red tape to shreds.

It issued specifications, received bids and awarded contracts all in one sitting. Some of the lumber must be delivered to a Florida port for export to Caribbean bases by Thursday and most of it must be delivered by the end of August.

Representatives of the lumber procurement section of the Quartermaster Corps made the awards in what amounted to an auction in reverse, held in a Tampa hotel. They demonstrated in a full day of bidding how the Army has abolished its mountain of paper work by going straight to the heart of producing sections with authority to issue immediate contracts on oral bids.

Under the sealed bid system, it formerly required three weeks to place an order for lumber for a single cantonment. Under the new plan lumber was purchased today for two bases in the Caribbean, for an air mechanics' training school at Biloxi, Miss.; for Eglin field at Valparaiso, Fla.; and for a gunnery school at Panama City, Fla.

Fifty lumber dealers throughout the southeast, large and small, participated in the business. When two bidders tied the auctioneer flipped a coin to determine the winner. When more than two tied, the winner was drawn from a hat. All bidders were designated by number. Clerks kept a running total of their orders.

As some bidders sold all they could deliver they left. Everybody seemed satisfied because the price range was between $40 and $47 a thousand feet, which the Army representatives called "about right."

Tampa Electric Starts
$1,750,000 Expansion

TAMPA, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—The Tampa Electric Company started work today on a $1,750,000 expansion of its steam-operated power plant to serve Tampa's growing defense needs with assurance of priority by the Office of Production Management.

The expansion will add a production of 15,000 kilowatts, enough to serve a city of 25,000 population, engineers estimated.

Governor Accepts 12-Mile Walk Test

Governor Talmadge says he will take the 12-mile walk with W. F. Helms, of Rex, Ga., but he prefers to do it on his farm.

The chief executive recently challenged any man over 50 to a test of physical endurance to prove his health is good, and Helms took him up. Helms announced last week the Governor had agreed to take the walk about the middle of July.

Asked about this promise, the Governor said he reckoned he would go through with it, but preferred to take Helms down on his farm in Monroe county and "walk him over a little plowed ground."

CCC To Enroll 3,200 Georgia Youth July 18

2,600 White Men, 600 Negroes To Lift Total to 11,000.

Georgia will enroll 2,600 white men and 600 Negroes into the Civilian Conservation Corps July 18, Charles A. Coffin, state supervisor of the CCC Selection Service, announced yesterday.

This will bring Georgia's total enrollment to more than 11,000. Coffin said. The total at present is approximately 8,500.

Georgia's quota is larger than that for many other states because employment conditions in some sections present such a demand for labor that there are relatively few recruits for the CCC.

Coffin pointed out that the CCC program is aiding materially in national defense preparations, since the Army in most cases finds CCC boys more physically fit for military service.

These boys, he said, have the fundamental training in discipline and camp life that is so essential to a good Army, adding that they can advance much faster in the service than raw recruits.

Qualifications include age limits of 17 to 23 1/2 years. Applicants must be unmarried boys out of employment and physically fit. The pay is $30 per month. Of this the enrollee may spend $8 save $7 and send $15 home, or if his family does not need the money he may deposit $22 with the government until his enrollment is completed. Food, clothing, medical care and recreation facilities are furnished by the government.

Soldier-Graduates To Return to Georgia

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 26.—Eighty-two soldier-students from 15 Army camps and posts were graduated tonight from the Army Medical Technicians' school, only unit of its kind in the south and southeast.

The school was established last April at the Army and Navy General hospital here to provide training for medical detachments enlisted men in technical phases of medicine, surgery, dentistry, laboratory, X-ray and pharmacy.

The graduates—part of a student body of approximately 200—will return tomorrow to their permanent stations, including Fort Oglethorpe, Fort McPherson and Camp Wheeler, in Georgia.

9 of Robin Moor Crew Landed In New Orleans

Seamen Doubt Whether Sinking Is Cause for War.

NEW ORLEANS, June 26.—(AP) Nine crew members of the torpedoed American ship Robin Moor returned to the United States today agreed they would go back to sea, but dubious whether sinking of their ship in the South Atlantic May 21 should be regarded as cause for war with Germany.

Although told the complete manifest of the ship's cargo had been made public, some apparently believed the cargo included war materials, and most of this first group of the crewmen to return home inclined to the belief that arming of American merchant ships would make shipping more dangerous than it is now.

John J. Banigan, third mate aboard the Robin Moor and the only officer of the group rescued June 8 by the Brazilian ship Ozorio and taken to Recife, Brazil, declined to make any public statement, other than "there's been a lot too much said about this already."

But the remainder of the crew spoke freely on arrival here aboard the Delta Line's Deltargentina, making her final trip before being taken over by the Navy for defense purposes.

They showed little bitterness toward Germany for the loss of their ship, several saying the submarine undoubtedly was German, but that the commander could not be blamed.

Depleted reservoir at Lake Burton—why there's power shortage in the southeast.

Atlanta restaurant posts a curfew notice.

One of the effects—"blackout" street scenes are common at night in Atlanta.

A lady reads by kerosene lamp.

THE POWER AND THE STORY—Acres of muddy, stump-ridden earth lie exposed around the dam of the Georgia Power Company's Lake Burton in north Georgia, where drought caused the water's surface to drop 65 feet, creating a power shortage affecting thousands of persons. Store fronts along Atlanta's Peachtree street are dark, as merchants co-operate in "blackouts" to conserve kilowatt consumption. Businesses co-operate, as Evelyn Collett and B. M.

Whitaker, Atlanta restaurant proprietors, post a self-appointed curfew notice. There's a power shortage at Nashville, Tenn., too, where Miss Della Chandler reads by kerosene light, though her home is wired.

OPM and Alcoa Attacked in Senate Report

Shortage of Aluminum Far Greater Than Is First Believed.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(P)—Cautious criticism of the defense production program was heard in the senate today as its special defense investigating committee reported a shortage of aluminum that may cause curtailment of electric power in homes.

In a bluntly-worded report on its inquiry into aluminum—vital metal for fighting airplanes—the senate group said production of 1,600,000,000 pounds annually was needed, with only slightly more than half of that in sight immediately. Some electric power may have to be diverted from home use to the production of aluminum, it was indicated.

"This situation is especially serious as we can not have confidence in our estimates of needs for aluminum, and as we may want to increase our airplane program still further," the special committee reported. "Unless we proceed at once to create new facilities, we may be unable to get aluminum when we need it, or we may have to ration private consumption of electricity in the home."

Other Developments.
This was only one of several defense developments during the day, others being:
President Roosevelt asked congress to authorize the expenditure of $300,000,000 additional on defense housing, making possible the construction of 75,000 more homes in places where defense industries have sprung up. A like sum was authorized last October. Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz asked the Senate Naval Committee to approve legislation empowering the Navy to hold enlisted men, including marines, in service beyond their present terms of enlistment. Such power was necessary, he said, because of the expansion of the fleet.

When Senator Johnson, Republican, California, remarked that such legislation would be a breach of contract with the men, Nimitz said the situation was sufficiently acute to warrant the measure. He said that during the World War men were not held in service after their enlistments expired, but added the situation was more dangerous now.

"Aluminum presents a tragic case history of failure to co-ordinate," Senator Brewster, Republican, Maine, said. "Today Germany is producing around two billion pounds of aluminum a year while we are unable to produce one billion. The country needs aluminum. The country gets an alibi."

OPM Criticized.
Asserting that "swarms of airplanes" must be produced, the committee said both the Defense Advisory Commission and the Office of Production Management had made "serious miscalculation" of aluminum needs, stocks and production.

The report, prepared under direction of Chairman Truman, Democrat, Missouri, criticized both OPM and the Aluminum Company of America. OPM was said to have relied on ALCOA and "discouraged anyone else from going into the business of producing aluminum" at the time the Reynolds Metal Company, new and only competitor of ALCOA, was constructing facilities at Lister, Ala., and Longview, Wash., for aluminum production.

"It is reasonable to conclude that ALCOA had convinced OPM of the adequacy of the supply in order to avoid the possibility that anyone else would go into a field which they had for so many years successfully monopolized," the report added.

U. S. Promises To Consider Red Aid Pleas

Russian Envoy Advises
Welles of 'Predatory Attack.'

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(P)—The United States informed the Russian ambassador today that it would give immediate attention to any request from the Soviets for aid against Germany.

The ambassador, Constantine Oumansky, called on Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, to advise him officially about the "predatory attack of Nazi Germany."

Afterward it was learned that Welles stated that any request for help would be given as favorable consideration as possible.

The Russian envoy—in a jovial mood—met newspapermen in a State Department corridor and made this statement:

"I called on Acting Secretary Welles to officially notify him of the predatory attack of Nazi Germany upon my country and received from the secretary a clear answer as to the attitude of the government of the United States toward this attack and as to the future relations between the United States and the U. S. S. R."

"The acting secretary made it clear that all questions deriving from the German attack on the Soviet Union will receive immediate and friendly attention of the United States government."

Oumansky refused to comment when asked whether he had brought any request for aid. The ambassador also declined any comment on President Roosevelt's statement in which he pledged the Soviet Union all possible assistance in defending itself against German invasion.

Turkish Vessel Reported Sunk By Fascist Sub

Ship Went Down With Loss of 160
Lives.

ANKARA, Turkey, June 26.—(Delayed) — (P)—The Turkish steamer Refah, sunk in the Mediterranean with a loss of 160 lives out of 180 passengers and crew members, was reliably reported today to have been sent down by an Italian submarine.

The 2,500-ton steamer carried Turkish naval personnel assigned to bring back from England several warships built there for the Turkish navy.

Some of the 20 survivors were reported to have landed in Palestine, others at the British Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

It was understood here that all the belligerent powers had been notified before the vessel sailed three days ago.

Previous reports from survivors had not identified the attacking submarine's nationality.

They said the ship, brightly lighted and with the Turkish colors painted on her sides, was torpedoed Monday night, sinking in two hours. The torpedo disabled the radio, so no distress call could be sent.

FOLLOWING WAR . . . WHAT?

U. S. Can Expect Full Prosperity If It Acts Boldly To Expand

(This is the eighth of a series of articles on what official Washington thinks ought to be done to reform our economic system in order to meet the crisis that is bound to come after the war.)

By BLAIR MOODY.
North American Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The men with the big political names in Washington—the senators, the representatives, the men with the soft, high-salaried sinecures—are rarely the real leaders of national policy these days.

Once they were. Time was, when the pressure of a changing world was not so heavy that you could call up your favorite senator at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and find out everything that had happened that day or would happen the next.

But since the depression and since President Roosevelt's arrival at the capital, things are different. The members of congress who count are specialists. The politically obsessed mental mastodons who know all the tricks and answers in the age of backscratching are now hopelessly behind the times. What they represent in public office, even supported by a good deal they do not represent, has three times been steamrollered by the American people.

New Day Dawned.
In the last decade not only has a new day of social and economic thinking dawned in the United States, but a new world of politics has come into being. A strong, dominant personality has succeeded in keeping his supremacy almost absolute, but the job has become too wide and complex for any one man to do, or even try. So President Roosevelt, while stooping to use the politicians and their methods to beat them at their game, has imported a new type of line officer in the key spots of government. He has not only lifted the face of the supreme court; he has also placed in potent positions many men with a point of view entirely new on the political stage.

The phrase "brain-truster" became a byword among those who sought to chase Mr. Roosevelt from office, and it's true that some pretty shaky experiments were spawned in the early and desperate days of the New Deal. But brains in public office are nothing of which the American people have to be afraid. And tucked in a hundred spots that count in the capital are men who are using their brains—trying to figure out a way to lick the problems of this generation before they lick us.

Opinions Important.
What those men say—not the zealous reformers - for - reform's sake, but the real progressives who dare to strike boldly toward a new and greater future for the United States—is of immense importance to the American people. Their consensus, gathered from economists, administrators, business men, college professors, and what-have-you in the capital, bears out with great emphasis the basic theme of this series—namely, that America has its greatest opportunity for full prosperity if it acts now boldly to expand; and that it is careening straight for collapse, tragedy and suffering if it follows further the traditional and sacred scarcity policy of an age now dead.

Let's hear what a few of these men, picked for quotation because of their experience and far-sightedness, have to say about the future of America:
Vice President Henry A. Wallace—"The end of economic policy we develop now, and particularly the wisdom of our action during the first years of peace, will determine the course of world history for half a century."

Higher Standards.
"Our job ahead is to give common men the opportunity to work for a higher living standard. Living standards can be raised and the job of peace is to see that they are raised."
"We have the resources, the inventive genius, the heart to do the job. For the first time in history we have the possibility of insuring to all humanity those minimum living standards without which the dignity of men cannot move toward its God-given destiny. We must work toward the time when no man will go hungry."
Milo Perkins, Marketing Administrator—"For centuries the world lived in an age of scarcity; now, for the first time in history, there is enough to go around. It isn't a matter of taking a liberal or conservative approach. It's a matter of knowing that this is a new and utterly different kind of world and that some of the old automatic mechanisms won't work any more; that the years ahead will no more permit us to hoard goods in the face of want than to hoard money in the face of poverty; that a civilization which is commodity-rich but consumption-poor cannot survive."
"In every other civilization until ours, you could take the most that could be produced and divide it among all the people alive to share it, and you'd always come out with the same answer, a terribly low standard of living."

Machine and Test-Tube.
"Today, because of the machine and the test-tube, if we produced all we could and divided it among all those alive to share it, we would come out with a good standard of living for the whole human race."

Harold D. Smith, Federal Budget Director—"Our standard of living will determine in large measure the extent to which our civilization can be maintained and improved."
"In the postwar period the Nazi scheme may very well threaten our free economic system itself. Germany has already solved its own unemployment problem. By means of a Nazi-directed industrial organization of Europe, and by the use of totalitarian control designed to bring about a full utilization of labor, Germany may solve the unemployment problem for the whole of Europe."

"Such totalitarian control would be repugnant to the American working man and the American employer alike. But if we should fail in our own efforts to end substantial unemployment during the postwar period, the Nazi success in this respect, regardless of how achieved, would be used as an example by those who might call for a rejection of our free economic system."

U. S. Has Advantages.
"This nation has no cause for an inferiority complex. Our almost limitless resources give us a tremendous advantage over any nation on earth. In our enormous productive capacity lies our greatest physical strength."

Donald M. Nelson, Progressive OPA Director of Purchases and Executive Vice President of Sears, Roebuck & Company—"There are two terrible pressures under which this whole defense program is being conducted—the pressure of the national emergency, and the pressure created by the sheer size of the program itself. Perhaps the best way to understand what we are trying to do is to look beyond both of these pressures and try to picture what we are going to have when the emergency is past and both pressures have subsided."
"We are working toward the goal that Americans have always worked toward—freedom, the kind of freedom that gets down into the lives of all the people, the freedom in which men can work and be happy and can order their lives to their own liking. The way to do this is not to restrict production, but to expand it to the limit."

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Before 11 a. m. does not especially favor new or important undertakings. The period favors finishing up old tasks. Quite the reverse is the case for the remainder of the day, favoring the undertaking of new plans and projects, literary and artistic efforts.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day and evening hours favor new contacts, real estate transactions, radio experiment and unusual and progressive pursuits.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Before 3:30 p. m. guard against restlessness caused by your mind being very active and therefore desirous of change. Affairs started at this time may meet with peculiar and abrupt changes. After 3:30 p. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening you will have a more thoughtful and generous attitude towards life.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor new or important undertakings. An excellent day to stick to routine and finish those things already started.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The entire day and evening may be considered very favorable, and stick to routine today, for your energies are likely to flow towards too much exhibition and imagination. The day does not especially favor making sudden changes or moves.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—An excellent day for relative, industrial matters and real estate transactions, dealings with relatives, industrial matters and matters of a romantic nature. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 4:30 p. m.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day may be considered favorable with the better part of the day before 3:41 p. m. Appointments, meetings, conferences, financial affairs, public matters should result in much harmony. The period past 4:41 p. m. favors sticking to routine.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—During the entire day and until 9:21 p. m. favors work that is of an original nature and that requires independence of action. After 9:21 p. m. favors social affairs.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—A combination of influences operate until 7:17 p. m., making this a favorable day for business activity, buying and selling, starting new ventures and maturing old plans. After 7:17 p. m. use special care in written matters of all kinds.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—An excellent day for dealing with matters pertaining to the general public, pertaining to professional people and politics. Some excellent results should be attained today. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 4:30 p. m.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—During the entire day and until 10:11 p. m. does not especially favor new beginnings. Travel changes or writing should be well-considered and entering into them. After 10:11 p. m. favors social activities.

Plant Stings Visitor.

One visitor to the botanical exhibits on the University College grounds in Auckland, New Zealand, was surprised and intensely pained when a plant stung him. Inadvertently he had touched the onga onga, or urtica ferox, with his fingers. The onga as described by T. L. Lawrence, associate professor of botany, is the most painful of stinging plants in New Zealand. The stalks and midriff of its leaves are covered with hairs, the tips of which break off and allow an organic acid to be injected when touched.

Fibber McGee and Molly are torn between a vacation in New York, to see the remaining stage shows and a tour of Alaska.

Willson's New Song

"You and I," Climbs

Meredit Willson's new popular song, "You and I," is currently enjoying one of the most spectacular climbs in popularity of any tune on the stands. Starting as a few bars of theme music for Willson's "Coffee Time" radio program, it was expanded into three verses and a chorus by Willson and published by him in sheet music form. Already it has been sung and played on the air by Bing Crosby, Rudy Vallee, Kate Smith, Betty Jane Rhodes, Glenn Miller and Tommy Dorsey. An English publishing house has asked permission to bring it out in Britain.

Bill Goodwin, announcer on the CBS Blondie program, nabs the role of announcer on "A Date With Judy," the summer replacement for the Bob Hope program.

BOND DEFENSE

Q. What is the reason for buying a Defense Bond?

A. To keep America free. To show your faith and pride in your country. To warn foreign dictators that the United States is the strongest country in the world.

Q. But if I have not enough money to buy a Defense Bond, what can I do?

A. Buy Defense Postal Stamps, on sale almost everywhere. Your post office, bank, department store or druggist has them, or can get them for you, at 10 cents upward. Save enough Stamps to exchange for a Defense Bond.

NOTE—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Kyser Swats Homer

Kay Kyser's athletic prowess earned his orchestra softball team a 9-9 tie with Ray Noble's swatters at Santa Catalina Island resort. Trailing by six runs in the last inning, with darkness setting in, Kyser's crew pushed three runs across the plate and had two men on base with the mighty Kyser at bat. Unlike the famous Casey, Kyser poled a long home run to tie the count—and the lumps halted the game.

Kate Presents Last of Series On Air Tonight

"Claudia and David" To Take Place of Beloved Singer.

Kate Smith presents the last of the current series of her variety programs on the Columbia network tonight at 7 o'clock over WGST.

Following the "Kate Smith Hour," which will feature another of the "Claudia and David" stories, Kate's only broadcasting activity until next fall will be her "Kate Smith Speaks" series. Beginning July 4, and continuing through the summer months, "Claudia and David," with Patricia Ryan and Richard Kollman in the title roles, will be heard Friday nights at 7 o'clock.

TYRONE POWER STARS IN BLOOD AND SAND

Tyrone Power will star in "Blood and Sand," which Louella O. Parsons, Hollywood's most noted columnist, will present in her "Hollywood Premiere" program over WGST tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Power will be heard in the role which helped make the late Rudolph Valentino famous.

Based upon the new 20th Century-Fox motion picture, "Blood and Sand" has to do with the life and loves of a youth who aspires to become a famous bull-fighter. He marries his childhood sweetheart but as fame goes to his head, becomes romantically involved with a beautiful society girl. Plunging into what is referred to as a "fast life," the bull-fighter begins to lose his nerve, begins to slip professionally. Intense drama, with tragic elements, follows as the story builds to a tense climax.

"Hollywood Premiere" is produced under the direction of Charles Vanda. Music for the series is provided by Felix Mills and his orchestra. The announcer is Harlow Wilcox, and Harry Kronman writes the scripts.

LUCILLE MANNERS SINGS TSCHAIKOWSKY MELODIES

One of Tschaiowsky's most celebrated melodies, "None But the Lonely Heart," will be sung by Lucille Manners, soprano, during the Friday concert tonight at 7 o'clock over WSB.

She also will be heard in "El Relicario," by Jose Padilla. Ross Graham, baritone soloist, will sing "Big Bass Viol," by Bohannon.

Dr. Frank Black, conductor, will open the program with "In the Tavern," by Nicodemus.

The program in detail:

In the Tavern, by Nicodemus (orchestra)

El Relicario, by Jose Padilla (orchestra)

None But the Lonely Heart, by Tschaiowsky (orchestra)

None But the Lonely Heart, by Tschaiowsky (orchestra)

Legion Bodies 'Burn' Mortgage at Valdosta
Special to THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 26.—Valdosta Post No. 13, American Legion, held an important meeting at the Legion home Tuesday when the mortgage on the home was officially "burned," except in this instance a substitute paper was actually destroyed.

The Legion and Auxiliary recently made the last payment on the building and the mortgage was cancelled. Instead of actually burning the mortgage, the Legion acceded to the wishes of the members of the Auxiliary and turned the cancelled paper over to them, to be placed in the auxiliary scrapbook. The scrapbook contains a sustained record of all the work and struggles of the two organizations to raise the money to pay for the handsome home which is now free of debt.

Inquiry in O-9 Disaster Slated To Begin Today

BOSTON, June 26.—(AP)—An inquiry into the submarine O-9 disaster probably will begin in New London, Conn., tomorrow, the first naval district command announced today.

An open court of inquiry convened formally in Portsmouth, N. H., yesterday for the purpose of organizing, but adjourned almost immediately without taking testimony.

America's No. 1 Glamour Girl Awaits Uncle Sam's Order

By SALLY FORTH.

... EVEN BRENDA FRAZIER, America's No. 1 Glamour Girl, is affected by the draft! For news drifting from New York reveals that the beautiful post-deb and her fiancé, John Simms (Shipwreck) Kelly, are anxiously awaiting Uncle Sam to grant "Tommy" Suffern Tailor's official leave in order that he may serve as the future bride-groom's best man. "Tommy," you know, is known as the "society golf wizard" of New York, and he is stationed at present in one of the nation's numerous Army camps.

Brenda, whose debut party set an all-time record in the metropolis, and "Shipwreck," who was formerly part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, have selected June 30 as their wedding date. Their engagement, you recall, was announced last week by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Frederick Watriss, of New York.

So widely has the beautiful Brenda been publicized that anything she does is of interest throughout the nation. But Atlanta is especially interested because her brother, "Freddy" Watriss, is a frequent and popular visitor here.

Sally hears that Brenda's engagement ring is a tremendous cabochon emerald, flanked with baguette diamonds—and reputed to be one of the largest and finest stones of its kind in the world! The emerald was once the property of an Indian Maharajah, who sold it to a New York jeweler!

... RARE IS the bride whose only ornament on her wedding day isn't a strand of pearls, "the gift of the groom." Therefore, it is exceedingly refreshing to find a groom-elect with imagination—like John Coleman, of Greenwood, S. C., for instance.

John's marriage to pretty Constance Allaire, who resided here before going to New York to make her home, will be an important event of tomorrow at the Winship Chapel of the First Presbyterian church.

Now, if Constance were to incorporate John's gift as a part of her bridal trappings, she certainly would cause a sensation. For she would have to ride into the church astride a handsome saddle horse!

"Danny Boy" is the name that has been given the thoroughbred, and Constance is anticipating many enjoyable rides along the bridge paths that abound in the environs of Greenwood, where she and her future husband will make their home.

... THOSE GOLDEN piano notes that fell so pleasantly upon the ears of passers-by and neighbors of the Richard Snows last evening represented the very real musical talents of three unusually gifted young friends. They are Betty Jane Snow, Carol Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jones, and Martha Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Molly Williamson.

Besides the passers-by and neighbors who enjoyed an unexpected treat, 50 friends of the youthful artists and their parents were gathered for the musicale, which presented the trio in their final piano recital of the year at the Snow home on Peachtree.

Not only was the affair pleasing to the ear, but to the eye as well, for the three youthful artists made a lovely picture in their forty frocks against a background of beautiful summer blossoms.

Betty Jane's brunette coloring was enhanced by her gown of powder blue dotted swiss; Carol, who is very blond, wore lavender net, and Martha, a brunette, chose white net for her frock.

... GLIMPSED AT the smorgasbord tea given Wednesday by Josephine Sanders for bride-elect "Beck" Wight. Coribel Mason (Mrs. Raymond) Arp, who assisted in entertaining, wearing huge earrings shaped like tropical flowers. . . . Ethel Erwin looking chic in summer black with a wide-brimmed black hat, the neckline of her dress accented by a white organdy ruffle. . . . The pretty hostess, wearing a shimmering gown of amber. . . . The popular honor guest discussing the possibility of rain at her alfresco wedding to John Hammond (Mrs. Ewing) Miles wearing white pique with a tiny red hat. . . . Anne Suttles looking stylish in white crepe with bright green accents. . . . Barbara Inell chatting with Jeanette Estes and Helen Randall, who served punch, and wearing a navy blue dress and wide-brimmed hat. . . . Marne Sampson accenting her blondness in a dress of cerise crepe worn with a moonstone necklace and bracelet. . . . Olive Bell Davis greeting Mrs. Ward Wight, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. J. O'H. Sanders, mother of the hostess, who were both becomingly gowned in Ciel blue. . . . Nancy Ingram (Mrs. John) Witherspoon chatting with Margaret Harmon, and wearing a dress and hat of dawn blue.

To Present Pupils.

This evening at 8 o'clock Lucille B. Moore will present a group of pupils from her voice and piano class at her home studio, 1463 Belmont avenue, S. W.

Those taking part will be Betty Grace Blackmann, Betty Bartlett, Mary Jane Weiden, Frances Turpin, Katherine Tinsley, Virginia Bernhardt, Evelyn Hartley, Sarah Jean Clark, Mesdames Derwood Whaley, Carl Chastain and Emory Bell.

Miss Miller Weds Carl A. Bryant.

The marriage of Miss Atha Lillian Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Miller, of Woodland, to Carl Augustus Bryant, of Buckhead, was solemnized Sunday at the Peachtree Christian church, with Dr. Robert Burns officiating. Music was presented by Mrs. Victor Clark, organist. Guests included members of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride entered with her only brother, Mr. Thomas Miller, by whom she was given in marriage. The bride was lovely, in an ensemble of navy triple sheer with matching accessories. Her hat was a French model with draped veil. Her corsage was sweetheart roses. The mother of the bride wore navy blue Romaine and pink roses. Wearing the same type of flowers was the groom's mother, who wore a crepe dress of floral design.

Mrs. Bryant is a graduate of Woodland High school after which she attended Crichton's Business College. She is a member of the Zeta Beta Chi sorority.

Mr. Bryant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryant Sr., of Buckhead. He attended the South Georgia College at Valdosta following his graduation from Madison High school. He is employed by the United States Post Office. Mr. and Mrs. Bryant will reside at 602 Atlanta avenue, S. E., when they return from Jacksonville, Florida.

Miss Hilsman Weds Mr. Ford.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Hilsman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Hilsman and Arthur Cleveland Ford Jr. was solemnized in the Hapeville Methodist church Sunday afternoon with Rev. L. B. Jones performing the marriage ceremony.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and pedestal baskets filled with white gladioli and larkspur. Many burning tapers added softness and beauty to the scene. The musical program was rendered by J. J. Medaries and Mrs. C. E. Beaumont.

The lovely bride, who was given-in marriage by her father, was radiant in her wedding gown of white marquisette made on princess lines with tiny buttons down the back, puffed sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her bridal veil of sheerest illusion fell from a halo of orange blossoms. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of gardenias centered with a lavender throat orchid.

Miss Martha Hilsman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a model of pink marquisette, over taffeta of same shade, with puffed sleeves. Miss Sarah Anne Lang was bridesmaid. Her gown was Nile green marquisette and was fashioned like that of the maid of honor. The little flower girl, Ann Tingle, wore a dress of yellow sheer. The attendants carried nosegays of summer flowers.

The groom was attended by Robert Schenck as best man. H. M. White Jr. was groomsmen. Ushers were H. D. Wigley and Jack Stallings.

Mrs. Hilsman, mother of the bride, wore blue chiffon with white accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses.

The couple left by plane for a bridal trip. The bride traveled in a white linen suit with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids. Upon their return, they will reside in Hapeville.

Wills-Brunson Rites Performed.

ALPHARETTA, Ga., June 26.—Miss Willie Belle Wills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wills, of Alpharetta, became the bride of Ralph L. Brunson, of Birmingham, Ala., a mid-afternoon ceremony at the First Methodist church in Alpharetta Sunday. Rev. Frank Morehead read the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Grady Hutchinson, of Birmingham.

Sunburst arrangements of white gladioli centered with pink gladioli were silhouetted against a background of palms which banked the altar. Music was presented by Miss Fannie Phillips, pianist, and Miss Virginia Clark, soloist.

Ushers were George Jones and George Wills, of Alpharetta, and William English and Jimmy Hutchinson, of Birmingham.

Miss Martha Jane Wills, only sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore rose silk with an off-the-face hat of white straw and white accessories.

Miss Charlotte Adams, of Alpharetta, was the bridesmaid. Her rose silk dress was fashioned like that of the maid of honor. Both attendants wore shoulder bouquets of pastel gladioli.

The lovely blond bride entered with her father, William H. Wills, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Howard Moreland, of Birmingham. The bride wore a model of white silk with a small hat with a veil, and her accessories were white. The bride's shoulder bouquet was of Eucharis lilies and swainsona.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brunson will reside at 605 South 46th street, Birmingham, Alabama.

Madonna Lilies and Gladioli Form Wedding Decorations

In a setting of tropical foliage accented by clusters of Madonna lilies and white gladioli, Miss Irma Jacqueline Garrett, daughter of Mrs. E. Garrett, became the bride of Ernest Herman Burger at a ceremony solemnized last evening.

Dr. M. A. Cooper and E. Powell Lee officiated. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Ruby Cates, soloist, and Miss Mildred Carroll, organist.

The bride entered with her uncle, Earl Groover, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and the best man, William H. Burger, brother of the groom.

White lace and marquisette were combined for the bride's costume, which was completed by a tulle veil held in place by a becoming cap of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was of white calla lilies and her only ornament was a strand of pearls.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Biggers, acting as maid of honor, wore pale blue lace and marquisette and carried a bouquet of pastel garden flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Corrie, wore pink marquisette and lace and carried a similar bouquet.

Ushers were Bill Black, Guy Groover, and Fred Burger, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Garrett, mother of the bride, wore a blue georgette gown with a shoulder spray of roses and swainsons.

Mrs. Burger chose for her son's marriage a blue lace gown and a shoulder spray of roses.

The couple left for a trip to Jacksonville, Fla. Mrs. Burger traveled in an ensemble of luggage tan and white, with white accessories and a cluster of gardenias.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Burger will reside at 897 Rose Circle here.

Out-of-town guests were Mesdames Ruby Cates, Jacksonville, Fla.; Myra Lee, Jacksonville, Fla.; E. Powell Lee, South Carolina, and E. Powell Lee Jr., South Carolina.

Settled Woman Must Guard Her Figure

By Ida Jean Kain.

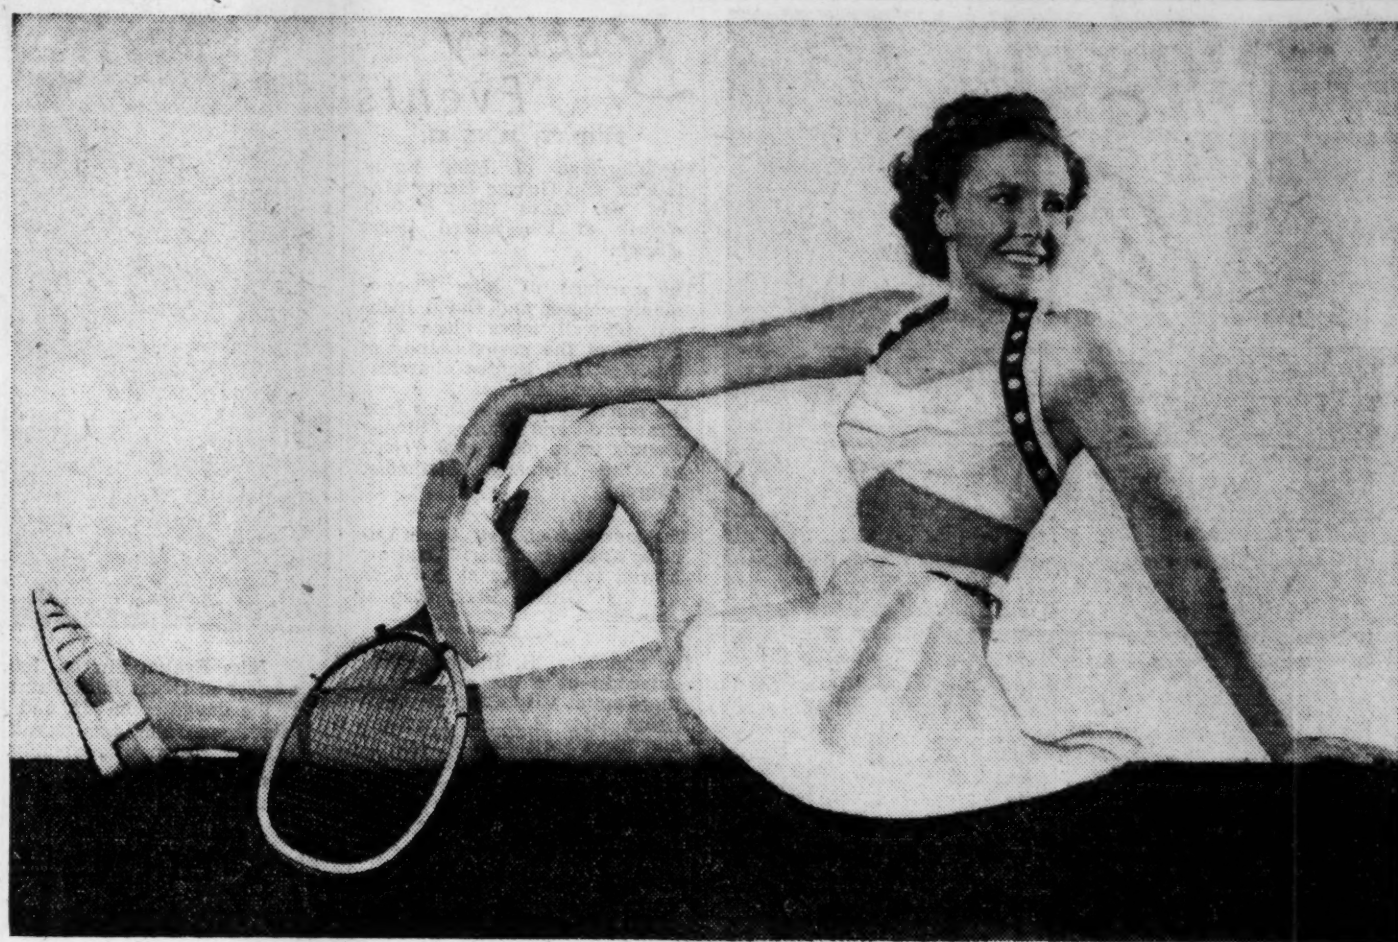

The married woman who made a fetish of catering to her beauty probably would not be worth her salt. And she would lose out, anyway, because she would be too interested in herself to be interesting to her life partner. But, all the same, keeping up in appearance is a sideline much more worthwhile than merely keeping up with the Joneses.

I have never been able to fathom any valid reason for the sharp division between the women who get their men and let themselves go and those who go on getting prettier. To back up this contention, there's proof in the person of Mrs. Lauritz Melchior, the wife of the famous singer.

The Melchior has been married for 16 years. By now she could be quite settled looking—say 20 pounds overweight and decidedly thick through the midriff. But the contrary is true. She weighs only 107 pounds, which happens to be perfection for her diminutive frame, and has a superlatively streamlined figure.

You could point out that as the wife of a celebrity, Mrs. Melchior has every incentive to keep slim and lovely—but there are too many celebrities' wives who don't. The surprising thing about her routine is its simplicity. She has never in her life had to diet for the very practical reason that she has always been on what some of you would dub a diet. She eats no sweets. She doesn't like desserts. She doesn't even like foods that are high in sugar or starch. She eats lots of meat and declares that unless she has meat for a meal, she is hungry two hours later. In addition, she likes plenty of vegetables and salads.

Your dietitian, IDA JEAN KAIN. Have you settled down? Then slim your figure with the exercises in Ida Jean Kain's "Streamline the Midsection." Please enclose stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia.

White play clothes look fine in contrast with bare arms, legs and midriffs . . . if they're beautifully tanned! If you haven't time for suntanning, or if these clouds of late have thwarted you, try getting your suntan from a bottle, as described below. Miss Laraine Day, of United Artists, models a white pique, two-piece tennis dress with contrasting trim of blue and white polka dots. It takes a well-tanned skin for this bare midriff.

Beautiful Sun-Tan Can Come Out of Bottle

By WINIFRED WARE.

There's a lot of talk about the beauty of white clothes with suntanned skin . . . and it's all true, but what are you going to do when your skin isn't suntanned? It could be a problem, for those of us who don't have much time to spend in the sun, but it needn't be.

You can obtain a beautiful suntan in just a few minutes . . . out of a bottle. There's a luscious tan lotion which is so easy to apply to your skin, goes on so smoothly and evenly, that you can use it on face, arms and legs if you like. It doesn't leave any residue after you apply it, but just a natural glow. It doesn't leave your skin with a heavy feeling, either, for it soaks right in.

I think it's fun to be able to change your coloring like this. At night you can be wistful and feminine with lily-white skin, if you like. Come day you can change your face to a bronze to accent your white dresses.

This isn't just a tip to those who haven't a suntan. If you find yourself confronted with an uneven tan . . . If you've been golfing and discover that in an evening dress your face is much darker than your shoulders . . . you can patch up the trouble in a jiffy with this lotion.

Let me tell you about this preparation, where you can get it, and how much it costs, so that you can have fun changing your complexion in accordance with your whims. Call me at Walnut 6565 or write me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "You'll get a star when you go all day without twirling your hair and I'll get one when I go all day without tapping my fingers on the table."

Mother: "How many times do I have to tell you to quit twirling your hair that way! If you could just see how silly it makes you look, you'd quit doing it . . ."

The co-operation of the person practicing a nervous habit is essential to the breaking of that habit.

Seeing Old Flame May Help To Forget

Dear Dixie:

Maybe you can help me decide between two men. I do not seem to be able to do it myself. I will call them Ted and Jerry. I have been in love with Ted for two years, but my parents object to him. We finally decided to call the whole thing off until we were older, thinking maybe my parents would change their minds.

Last year I met Jerry and we began dating regularly. We have a good time. He is from a nice family and my people like him. I have discovered that I love him, but I cannot bring myself to tell him how I feel. I love him more than I thought I could possibly love anyone. He knows that Ted is a part of my life and seems to resent it. Jerry is dependable and

By Dixie George.

Ted is not, but that does not keep me from loving him as I once did. He has asked me for a date and I have refused, although I want to see him very much. I am afraid to see him for fear I will fall in love with him again. I want to forget him and love Jerry. What do you think? Should I stand the risk of seeing Ted again just to talk to him? UNDECIDED.

If you love Jerry "more than you thought you could possibly love anyone," I do not see why you should have any fear of seeing Ted. If Ted still means so much to you, and you feel that just the sight of him will bring back your old love, then you do not love Jerry. In all fairness to both of them, I think I would see Ted again, and either get him out of your life entirely as far as loving him is concerned, or go on back to him and forget Jerry. Thinking of Ted so much does not help much in proving your love for Jerry. You say he resents Ted, and you are certainly urging the resentment by wanting to see him again. I am afraid you do not know the value of love, or you would not be wavering so between the affections of these two. If you have any strength of character you can see Ted without any pulling of heart strings and continue loving Jerry. It might be a good idea to see Ted just one more time, in order to compare him with Jerry. Maybe you are loving his memory and still clinging to a lot of romantic illusions. Jerry seems the best bet in my opinion.

Gifts for Boys in Camp Are Numerous.

Dear Dixie:

The boy I am engaged to is in the army and he has a birthday soon. Will you please suggest something for a gift. PEGGY.

Your gift should, of course, be something which he may enjoy in camp. The stores are going in for military features in a big way now, and there are a number of accessories which would be very welcome. There is always military writing paper which could be made more personal by the addition of his company and regiment title. A fountain pen to go along with this would be good, too. There are military brushes, cigar cases, any type of leather goods, camera, sets of card games, handkerchiefs, and what about a subscription to his favorite magazine? A carton of cigars is good, or a supply of tobacco for his favorite pipe.

Injection of Poison Ivy Toxin May Give Relief to Sufferer

By Dr. William Brady.

Everyone should recognize poison ivy at sight. Poison oak is a bush four or five feet high, but sometimes it grows as big as a vine like ordinary poison ivy. Poison oak or poison ivy leaves are long stemmed, have three leaflets, two of the leaflets opposite and short-stalked, the middle leaflet having a long stalk. The leaflets are notched on one side. The leaflets are from one to four inches long, dark green on upper surfaces, lighter and often velvety with fine hairs on the under surfaces.

Harmless woodbine or Virginia creeper, often mistaken for poison ivy, has leaves with five leaflets.

Poison sumac grows as a shrub with several slender clustered stems or sometimes as a tree 20 to 30 feet high with a trunk several inches in diameter. Its leaves are seven to 14 inches long and have from seven to 13 leaflets arranged in opposite pairs with one leaflet on a long stem at the end. In early spring the leaves of poison sumac have a bright orange color and have velvety hairy surfaces underneath, but when mature the leaves are dark green and glossy underneath.

Emergency remedies for ivy poisoning are many. These have proved satisfactory in general experience:

1. Apply wet dressings of 10 per cent solution of sodium thiosulfate (formerly called hyposulfite of soda, the chemical photographers call "hypo").
2. Dressings kept moistened with saleratus in water or borax in water afford some relief.
3. Sop on the affected portions of skin equal parts of tincture of iron chloride and water.
4. Bathe first with alcohol, then with 10 per cent solution of tannic acid in water.
5. Bathe with sour milk or buttermilk.
6. Apply compresses kept wet with strong tea.

An injection of poison ivy toxin by the physician often brings relief within 24 hours.

Shirtwaist Frock Is Softly Tailored

By Lillian Mae.

PATTERN 4746.

Even sports clothes get "softie" this summer—for becoming effect! Take, for instance, this striking new Lillian Mae shirtwaist frock. Though the simple, casual style of pattern 4746 makes it perfectly wearable for working days, its unusual softness adds a slight dress-up air and gives wonderful figure flattery. There's smart bodice interest in the rounded yoking that forms one piece with the center panels in a striking effect. The sides of the bodice are left soft and bloused, with the fullness held in by gathering under the yokes and above the waist. That notched collar is a classic shirtwaist feature—so is the buttoning-to-the-waist. Panels go down both the front and back skirt for slim, graceful lines.

Pattern 4746 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 takes 3 3/4 yards 35-inch fabric.

MY DAY: Wm. Shirer's Book Is Vividly Written

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

EASTPORT, Maine, Wednesday.—A man in Brooklyn, N. Y., sends me a clipping containing a few words I had said about our responsibility, as a nation, to the world, and comments on it in a little rhyme about "looking out for number one, before anything has begun." He thinks we haven't "plenty to spare" and can't "send it all over there."

It does seem to me that the gentleman misses the point. If we bend every effort now to produce necessary material help for those who are doing the fighting in a cause which we believe to be right, we may keep the war from our shores. If Great Britain, China and Russia lose, sooner or later we will have to fight.

No matter how well prepared we are, 175,000,000 people in this hemisphere will have quite a struggle; first on the economic side and eventually on the military side.

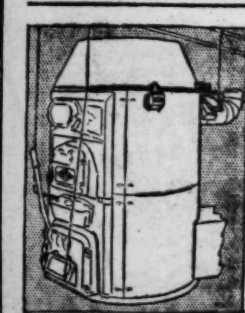

We shall be pitted against 500,000,000 people in Europe and Japan, and heaven knows how many more if Russia is not able to hold out. I don't want war, but I think that every effort we can put into production and military preparation to aid those fighting Hitler, is our best guarantee against war; and our only safety, should it come.

Yesterday afternoon I went over to Lubec, Maine, to see my old friend, Dr. Bennett, who is now 90 years old. He is deeply troubled by the state of the world and kept repeating: "What has happened to the goodness in the world?" I think a good many of us would like to know the answer to that question.

We went in to see Dr. Bennett's son, who is also a doctor, and told him that there would be 30 young people in this house for five weeks. I think he may have to keep an eye on them now and then, and I reminded him of some of the escapades his father had pulled many of our people through in days gone by.

In the evenings we read aloud from William Shirer's "War Diary." The book is a wonderful piece of vivid writing. It is extraordinary that he was able to do his work in Berlin, feeling as he did, and not get into serious trouble. It must have required an amount of self-control which very few of us possess.

Italian Force Will Fight Beside Germans in War on Russia

Spanish Falangists Seek Recruits To Help Nazis; Fascist Press Hints Japan Will Join Battle in Anticipation of Any Move by U. S.

ROME, June 26.—(AP)—An expeditionary force to fight against Russia was announced by the Italian government today as the Fascist press hinted that Japan, the third Axis partner, also soon may join the war to anticipate any move of the United States.

In Madrid, meanwhile, the Falangist party announced the opening of recruiting offices to enlist Spanish volunteers to fight against Russia.

It was reported that Hitler had demanded from each country sympathetic to his "New Europe," a token force to fight against Communism.

Writing in the authoritative Giornale d'Italia, Admiral Gino Bucchi said Japan might occupy the rest of Sakhalin Island, now shared with Russia, and the Soviet base of Petropavlovsk, on Kamchatka peninsula.

Japan's move, he said, would be to prevent the United States from occupying Soviet bases from which air attacks could be directed against the Japanese islands. He expressed the opinion that Japan would be obliged to "re-examine her defensive problem" in view of "possible American war initiatives."

Italy's decision to send troops to fight by the side of the Germans was made public in a communique which said Il Duce piloted his own warplane to an undisclosed city in the Po valley of northern Italy to inspect the first motorized division of the expeditionary force.

Most interesting thing about the Russian-German war is not that it happened, but that it happened now, with startling suddenness. I have full authority for stating that both American and Soviet circles in Washington, although, of course, aware of reports (which mostly emanated from German or German-controlled sources in Europe) of recent German troop movements toward Russia's borders, were surprised by the news that war had begun.

Indeed, with the possible exception of Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Moscow, who has been predicting this war, before the end of June, since last February, I doubt that any observers outside Germany—and that goes for Moscow and Tokyo as well as for Washington and London—expected the struggle now.

Berlin dispatches indicate the propaganda line that Adolf Hitler has struck at Russia because he feared the Russians, in cahoots with the British, were preparing to attack him when, or if, he decided to invade England. That is his war with Russia is simply clearing his eastern skirts, so to speak, in preparation for the drive on England, which will finish the war.

Not Teamed With Britain. This is nonsense because, firstly, as no one knows better than Sir Stafford, the Russians were anything but in cahoots with Britain and secondly, the cardinal and basic policy of the Kremlin is to keep Russia out of the war. No, Hitler savaged his "friend" Joseph Stalin for three good reasons and one bad one.

1. The German war machine can't be allowed to rust in idleness. That mailed monster can't swim the channel, and might stiffle in the heat of Libya or Palestine. 2. The illusion and "tempo" of victory must be maintained, lest the German people, and other peoples, grow restive. Not getting that German stores of food and oil, though supplemented by the loot of a continent, may be lower than Hitler admits. 3. The Nazi leaders are growing daily more anxious about the speed and volume of American aid to Britain. It is not only a question of planes and materials, but of the drop in tonnage sunk on the Atlantic as the result of the American patrol system which is already far more effective than the public knows.

"I Want Peace, Not War." That brings me to Hitler's fourth reason, which Prime Minister Winston Churchill shattered Sunday. I mean the chance, which I and many other observers had regarded as Hitler's last hope, that he could grab the Ukraine and North Caucasus with their grain and oil and coal and iron, then turn and say to the world, "I always want peace, not war. I will restore what I took in the west and we can all be friends. I now have lebensraum in the east and I've done you all a service by smashing the horrid Bolsheviks."

Hitler may have thought that his words would find an echo in London and perhaps in this country. Churchill has undeceived him, and we may take for granted that Churchill did not pledge all possible support to the U. S. S. R. and meant it—without due consultation with Washington.

However, there is one other possibility, at which Churchill hinted. That Hitler now has an Alexander complex and dreams of conquering Asia, as well as Europe. He may think Stalin's regime is no stronger than Alexander found the empire of Darius, that the Russian people, discouraged by the collective farm struggle which cost it so dear, by the "purge" and the continuous shortage of consumers' goods, may cry, as the British did after Cromwell, "Let's put the clock right back, and open the churches again and 'rive back the land to the peasants, and have a Tsar again; not landlords, but a Tsar, and private production and trade."

Family Reasoning. I believe such reasoning is faulty, that whatever Stalin's empires, or the sorry crew of disgruntled former "fellow-travelers" may pretend, there will be no putting back of Russia's clock. Yet Hitler may think he can do it, and Hitler has done a lot of things which I, and better men than I, believed to be impossible. If Russia cracks under the panzer hammer the son of the Grand Duke Kyril Romanov, whose sister married Louis Ferdinand, Prince of Prussia, might return to the throne of his fathers, as a bigger and better Quisling. Which brings me to the vexed and difficult question of the Red army and its strength and value, and of its will, and the will of the Russian people, to resist the hammer of Thor. I've talked with dozens of foreign military experts, in Russia and outside it. Most of them, like most diplomats in Russia, do not love the Bolshevik regime, but they are experts and seek truth. I'd say that the consensus of expert opinion is that odds in Germany's favor are five to one at least.

They say Russia has only 1,000,000 good troops, at the outside, and the rest are of little value. That Russia can't "maintain in the field," that is frontline forces with adequate supplies, equipment and transport, more than 1,000,000 anyway. That Finland gave the show away, and so on and so forth.

Just a Parade. Much of this is true, or was true in the last war. But I think about Finland it's wrong, because there, like the British in the Boer war 40 years ago, the Russians thought the whole thing was just a parade, and when they found their mistake and did exercise their full strength—then of course they won hands down. Another German before Hitler, made a mistake in underestimating a potential foe—and lived to regret it in exile at Doorn.

There remains a further question—the effect of this war on Japan and China, where a struggle has raged for years no less great and bloody and bitter than the war in Europe. Will Yusei Matsuoka, the Japanese foreign minister—that ambitious creature who jumped his country onto Hitler's bandwagon, and ran across Russia and back and signed a neutrality pact, which may or may not conflict with his other deal with the Axis, and did all this but failed to end the war in China, which is breaking the heart of Japan—sleep soundly tonight? Japan will stand pat and wait, with a sharp and anxious eye on London and Washington. But if I were Matsuoka I'd be looking for a nice cool villa in the country to spend the summer and write memoirs.

Odds in War With Russia Set 5-1 for Nazis

Experts Say, Outside of Few, Stalin Troops of Little Value.

By WALTER DURANTY. For North American Newspaper Alliance. NEW YORK, June 26.—The most interesting thing about the Russian-German war is not that it happened, but that it happened now, with startling suddenness. I have full authority for stating that both American and Soviet circles in Washington, although, of course, aware of reports (which mostly emanated from German or German-controlled sources in Europe) of recent German troop movements toward Russia's borders, were surprised by the news that war had begun.

Ickes Attacks Lindbergh and 'Nazi Wolves'

Secretary of Interior Brands Ex-Colonel as Hitler Stogee.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 26.—(UP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes tonight sounded a virtual call to arms and branded Charles A. Lindbergh as one of Adolf Hitler's "stooges" and an American "Quisling."

Ickes labeled Lindbergh and his followers as "Nazi wolves in pacifists' clothing."

In effect, he called upon the United States to enter the war now while Germany is preoccupied with Russia because "such a golden opportunity cannot be expected to come again."

Ickes, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Fight for Freedom Committee and the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, warned that "the time for action—unremitting and relentless action—is upon us."

"The American people must not tomorrow, but now—make their supreme choice," he said. "We have been living too long on borrowed time. We must decide now—whether we are willing to buy a craven's truce, as Lindbergh urges upon us, or work, sacrifice, fight and die, if need be, for liberty in the inspiration of Washington, of Lincoln, and Churchill" (British Prime Minister Winston Churchill).

No Breathing Spell.

The Russo-German war, he said, provides no occasion for a breathing spell, but rather for greater effort and greater aid to Britain.

"In fact," he said, "this is the psychological moment to strike—to strike hard and harder, fast and faster. Such a golden opportunity cannot be expected to come again."

Ickes launched into a vitriolic, no-holds-barred denunciation of Lindbergh, whom he identified as an "ex-colonel" and labeled "our knight of the German eagle" (an apparent reference to the decoration bestowed upon the famed flyer by Germany several years ago).

He cited Lindbergh as "the most conspicuous example" among "those who are using slogans of peace and the arguments of peace, but who are neither sincere lovers of peace nor conscientious objectors to war."

"He (Lindbergh) and his crowd make no pretense of being pacifists, although they are for a Hitler peace and are against a peace written by the democracies."

Nazi Wolves.

"These spurious non-resistants, these Nazi wolves in pacifists' clothing, are trying to persuade us that a peace dictated by Hitler would not be merely a truce to give time to the Nazis to organize the resources of Europe, Asia and Africa, preparatory to striking at free America after our soil has been carefully cultivated for the dragon teeth of totalitarianism by the Lindberghians," Ickes said.

Ickes charged Lindbergh with seeking political aggrandizement either "through an understanding with Hitler, or as an expected favor from him."

"If Lindbergh is for Hitler now, as every act and word of his seem to indicate," Ickes said, "it is because, through an understanding with Hitler or as an expected favor for him, he glimpses a political future which a free people would not accord him voluntarily. Thus it was with Quisling, who betrayed Norway to Hitler, and with Laval, who is doing the same thing to France."

Referring to a recent statement in which Lindbergh was quoted as saying the nation needed new leaders, Ickes said, "This shocking exposure of personal political ambitions—ambitions which, apparently, he would attain by unconstitutional means—made even his simple-minded adherents gasp."

"When our knight of the German eagle was asked to explain what he meant," Ickes said, "did he stand bravely by his guns? No, he ran like a jackrabbit. He resorted to weasel words to try to protect himself from the only logical conclusion that could be drawn from what he said."

Lindbergh's Role.

"As Hitler's designs upon America are becoming clear, so is the role that Lindbergh has cast for himself. The understanding between the dictator who bestowed the medal and the man upon whose breast it was pinned is not accidental."

Ickes cited an interview given by Hitler to former Belgian Ambassador John Cudahy in which the Fuehrer was represented as having said that "no one in Germany had ever claimed that the Mississippi river was a German frontier as the Allies spoke of the Rhine as their frontier." He said the interview was given May 23 and was not published until June 6, and added that on May 29 Lindbergh said in a Philadelphia speech:

"If we say that our frontier lies on the Rhine, they can say that theirs lies on the Mississippi."

Ickes said this was no coincidence.

"Hitler and Lindbergh just happened to think alike. They have a common objective."

Still referring to Lindbergh and his followers, Ickes said that "in this country Hitler has his stooges and his Quislings, his witting and his unwitting tools."

AXIS SHIPS SUNK.

Lyle, Gibson Agree To Bury Hatchet Today

Grand Jury Acts as Peacemaker Between City Officials.

With the Fulton county grand jury acting the role of peacemaker, Councilman George Lyle, chairman of the city prison committee, and H. H. Gibson, prison superintendent—who have been battling over prison administration since Mayor LeCraw took office and before, today are scheduled to shake hands and bury the hatchet.

Both have pledged to appear before the jury at 10 o'clock this morning and ceremoniously push all their bygones into the limbo of forgotten things.

Open warfare broke out between the prison committee chairman and the superintendent shortly after LeCraw restored Lyle to the committee chairmanship he held before W. B. Hartsfield took office in 1936, and subsequently employed Gibson, ousting Jim Ellis as superintendent.

The fight grew so bitter each man sought to have the other indicted and several grand juries, including the present body, have investigated the charges and countercharges of the men.

M. Graham Clark, chairman of the special jury committee now investigating the prison, was understood to have brought about the "constructive" settlement of the argument by asking each man to appear today, forget the past

Pineapple Stalk Buds Romance For Truck Driver, Hawaiian Girl

NEWARK, N. J., June 26.—(UP)—The call of the South Seas, a love of pineapples, and a note from a pretty Hawaiian girl led Thomas J. Britton, a truck driver, to enlist in the United States Army today with a request that he be assigned to Hawaiian duty.

Britton likes pineapples so much he buys a crate at a time. Six months ago he found in the stalk of one pineapple a note from Lolita Kahanahoi, of Wailulu, Oahu. She asked the recipient to write. Britton wrote and they exchanged pictures. Now he wants to see Lolita in person.

"This girl has been on my mind a long time," he explained. "I decided it would be worth my while to join the Army so I could get out there and see what she was like. It's a gamble. If I lose, well, there's always Hawaii."

Colonel Joseph Fletcher said he would see to it that Britton is sent to Schofield barracks, outside Honolulu, on the island of Oahu.

and start out anew on a friendly, co-operative basis.

Lyle and Gibson last night confirmed the fact each had pledged to respond to the grand jury's oil on troubled waters.

Clark, after a three-hour session with members of city council yesterday, said his committee will recommend completion of the new city prison building over which the argument was raging and urge council to provide some $35,000 additional money needed. He added they would recommend a temporary cover be placed over the unfinished structure on which construction was stopped by court action.

The grand jury yesterday also asked council to cancel its auto-trucking contract with J. C. Banks, and to award it to another bidder.

Bond To Reopen Tuesday Morning

Bond Clothing store at 45 Peachtree, damaged Tuesday in a down-pour, will reopen Tuesday morning for business as usual, it was announced yesterday by J. W. Connors, general manager and vice president of the national clothing company.

Rain caused a roof over the altering shop to collapse. A new roof is to be installed and Connors said that every piece of goods damaged by water would be sent back to the factory and not placed on the market. He said water damaged very little of the stock.

Retail Sales Up 32 Per Cent In Georgia

Georgia consumers are digging deeper into their pocketbooks and buying more merchandise from independent retailers, a United States Census Bureau report showed yesterday.

Dollar sales of independent retailers in Georgia during May of this year totaled $6,274,891, the report revealed. This represents an advance of 32 per cent over sales during May of last year for all independent retail stores with the exception of 14 representative department stores which showed a net increase of 3 per cent over the same period.

Of the several business classifications covered by the May survey, motor-vehicle dealers showed the largest sales gain, 65 per cent. Men's clothing and furnishings with an increase of 39 per cent and furniture sales with a 35 per cent advance were next in order.

DO NOT DISTURB.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 26.—(AP) Some Savannah citizens like to sleep in the mornings in preference to hearing the cries of hucksters, or being routed out of bed by doorbell ringers who want to sell fresh vegetables. City Market Clerk J. L. Cole said a city ordinance forbidding such procedures before 8 a. m. would be enforced hereafter.

White Slavery Trial Witness Describes Ads

Atlantans Testify at Hearing for Three in Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—A prosecution witness in a white slave conspiracy trial testified today that Atlanta newspaper advertisements stating "no experience required" asked for girls to work in a night club opening here.

W. S. Kirkpatrick, Atlanta Journal news editor, said the advertisement promised salaries and tips and referred interested girls to Carroll King, one of the three defendants.

Mrs. Anne Bennett, of Atlanta, testified that a telephone number given in the advertisement was hers, and that about 100 calls were received.

Mrs. Bennett related that she now resides at the La Paloma Club, formerly operated by Al Youst, co-defendant with his wife, Evelyn, and King.

Agnes and Frances Pauline McCullar, of Chattanooga, and Mrs. Bennett described lewd dances at the club and said patrons threw coins to the entertainers. All said that Youst made no improper advances to them.

Customers buying drinks for the hostesses, the girls testified, paid 50 cents apiece for soft drinks which they thought contained liquor. They said the hostesses were forbidden to drink intoxicants.

Mr. and Mrs. Youst and King are accused by the government of conspiring to transport girls across the state line "for purposes of debauchery."

Captain Baker Succumbs in Decatur at 59

Retired Army Officer Served at Most Foreign Posts.

Captain John R. Baker, retired Army officer, died yesterday at his residence, 156 Coventry road, Decatur, at the age of 59.

Funeral services will be held at Trinity chapel at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. C. R. Stauffer will officiate, and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery.

Captain Baker, during his long career with the Army, had served at nearly every foreign post of the United States and was a veteran of the first World War. When he retired in 1925, he was stationed with the signal corps at Fort Omaha. He was a native of Royston, Ga. Captain Baker was a member of the Harold Byrd post, American Legion, and was a Shriner.

He is survived by his wife and four sisters, Mrs. H. M. Tucker, Mrs. R. C. Ayers, Mrs. G. C. Wilder, and Mrs. O. P. Hobbs, all of Royston.

600,000 Quit CCC For Defense Jobs

Charles Coffin, Georgia supervisor CCC Selection Service, said yesterday that more than 600,000 members of the Civilian Conservation Corps have been discharged from the corps before their enrollment period expired to accept employment in private industry.

"And employers all over the country," he added, "are visiting camps and communicating with CCC officials looking for more trained workers."

Pointing out that instruction at CCC camps is shaped to train enrollees for jobs in national defense, Coffin said that all of the members of the corps who completed an aircraft mechanics course at the camp in California have obtained jobs with west coast aircraft plants, and that plant officials are anxious to obtain every boy completing the course because they have proved to be such excellent workmen.

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 27, 1941.

USO Fund Still Short

Atlanta's response to the United Service Organization appeal for $90,000, to help finance community recreation centers and services for men in our armed forces, to date has lacked the spontaneity and enthusiasm such an important and worth-while effort deserves.

After three weeks of arduous work by hundreds of unselfish men and women, this community is still more than $30,000 short of its fair quota of the national fund. Unless the balance is subscribed promptly, Atlanta will have to bear the stigma of failing to meet its responsibility in this vital phase of our national defense program.

It's true, of course, that we don't see soldiers and sailors crowding our streets, public conveyances and business establishments, as they do in the small towns adjacent to Army posts and naval bases. But there are several thousand here already and more doubtless will be brought in as our armed strength grows.

Moreover, Atlanta is headquarters of the Fourth Corps Area and the transportation center of the southeast. Upward of 40 per cent of the soldiers now in training camps are in this area. And, there's a constant flow of uniformed men through the city, going to and from posts and laying-over for a few hours or a few days while en route.

Part of the fund now being raised by USO will be used to finance an adequate community center here. Four months' operation of the temporary Service Men's Club at Peachtree and Walton streets has strikingly demonstrated the need of such facilities.

But, if there were not a soldier, sailor or marine in Atlanta, there would be every reason why Atlanta should meet this responsibility; take advantage of this opportunity. Aside from our patriotic duty, we should remember our own boys are in camps, and bases throughout the country. We would want them to enjoy the benefits of wholesome community life during their leisure hours.

Stripped of patriotism and sentiment, the USO appeal to Atlanta is sound from a cold business viewpoint; for few, if any cities have received a larger proportion of federal funds through expenditures by military and naval establishments, and other governmental agencies. Federal funds spent here help every businessman and individual worker, directly or indirectly. Think it over, you citizens of Atlanta, and decide where your duty, your best interest lies, and act.

We shall probably fall in love with France all over again. But Laval and those wash neckties won't be there.

"This gasless Sunday would interfere with my going to church," a local golfer points out, after thinking the thing through.

Not in Atlanta

Recently, a New York doctor told an industrial health conference the average working girl's lunch consists of a doughnut and a soda.

What's more, this self-same doctor said the average working man's lunch is a glass of beer, a piece of stale cheese and a piece of stale bread. Of course, conditions in his company may not afford workmen—men or women—proper lunches, but a swing around the Atlanta lunch circuit certainly gives the lie to such a statement, and, if memory serves correctly, New Yorkers of all classes do better. Even the Italians, notoriously poor feeders, in New York are famed for their "lunch" sandwich, consisting of an entire loaf of bread, sliced lengthwise and stuffed with bologna, salami or other sundry edible foods.

In Atlanta adequate and decent meals are available for 25 cents and less. Newspapermen who have to eat where time snags them, have eaten in every section of the city and none ever remarked at the lack of decent food at decent prices even in the smallest hole-in-the-wall places. Nor do our "poor working girls" lunch on anything quite as inadequate as a doughnut and a soda.

There are many deficiencies in the American diet—so many it is passing strange to find a doctor going out of his way to misrepresent the eating habits of those who can eat. Or perhaps he suffers from dyspepsia.

With taxes what they are and threaten to become, many are passing up that unhealthy daydream, "What would I do with a million dollars?"

Corsairs of Courtland Street

Recent introduction of a one-way traffic system onto some of our principal streets gave high hope that some portion of the city's mad traffic jam might be obliterated. To the extent that this system has speeded the flow of traffic and thinned the congestion on the more popular routes, the innovation has succeeded.

But from this blessing has come a new evil, born in ignorance and nurtured on recklessness. This is the driver whose conception of a one-way street is that of a badminton court on which he is to play gleeful shuttlecock from curb to curb. To him, the six-inch white stripes which mark the traffic lanes are as irresistibly inviting as a national border to a Nazi. He must constantly be chasing across the lines, scampering about like a hungry rabbit to see the greener grass in the adjoining pasture.

And there is his brother scourge, the driver who conceives the stripes as ribbons which he must roll directly beneath his radiator cap. Straddling the lines with the precision of a Johannsen-block maker, he chugs manfully along, stupidly disorganizing traffic in both lanes behind him.

Too, there is their dumb cousin, the cross-handed driver who invariably charges down the lane opposite from the direction he intends to turn at the next corner, and then, when he approaches the intersection, either whips frantically across the entire street or comes to a dead halt while brakes behind him scream in mad agony.

If traffic is to move swiftly, safely on one-way streets, these three brother rats of traffic—the Metronome, the Fence-Straddler, and the Crosscreeper—must be taught better manners. There is one good way to teach them, and Judge Arnold is waiting with lesson number one.

Biologists tell us the blonde type will probably have passed in another century. It is not too soon to think of stuffing the Tommy Manville collection for posterity.

While others spout lava and hot ashes, our Mr. Sumner Welles gets the same effect with a few well-frozen words.

Telling the Enemy

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, has been proclaiming his loyalty far and wide across the country recently. He has been proclaiming so hard and fast it seems he hasn't heard of the gentleman's agreement, placed in operation in this grave emergency, to withhold information to enemy powers relative to movements of the fleet.

While all other members of congress, the radio and the newspapers of the country observe this agreement, it remains for Wheeler to tell all and sundry that a "substantial portion of the fleet is being shifted from the Pacific to the Atlantic." What great aid and comfort this must be to the Japanese, for example, who might withhold their hand just as long as the fleet in the Pacific was intact. There is no corroboration, and no honest person will want any, that Wheeler is right. Nevertheless, he has made a dangerous mistake. Perhaps the person who gave him the information he so freely divulges is the same who told the late Senator Borah there would be no war in Europe.

Wheeler thinks he knows a lot more than the President, the cabinet, the armed services, the State Department and all others who make it their business to know what is going on in the world. He's a genius who is going to become President in 1944 and kiss Adolf on the forehead and tell him all is forgiven. A little knowledge, a wise man once remarked, is a dangerous thing. Especially in the hands of a sophomoric senator like this.

So numerous are federal employees in Washington, their paydays are to be staggered. As for the little man who pays for all this, he, too, is reeling.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE RIGHT PEOPLE FIGHTING
(From The Moultrie Observer)

At last we have the perfect war. A war in which the right people are involved. A war that is bound to make this a better world in which to live. No matter which side wins, the best interests of modern civilization will be served. If they both lose—one could easily wish that they might—then freedom, democracy, religion, happiness and culture will blossom like the rose.

The two dangerous ideologies have come to grips.

The world's two supreme tyrants are at each other's throats.

They first sought to work together and divide the spoils of earth.

They both reached the point where they felt that there is only enough spoils in the world for one.

They have decided to throw the dice.

All for Hitler or all for Stalin.

There are doubtless many innocent and helpless people in both Germany and Russia. Against these there can be no feeling of ill will. There can be no applause when you think in terms of slaves under Hitler and Stalin falling in battle. We can only wish that they might have had a better lot.

But as the dangerous machine of Hitler grinds down the dangerous machine of Stalin, and vice versa, there is ample cause for rejoicing. The more strength they expend on each other, the less they will have to direct against the peace-loving peoples in other nations.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS AND KENNETH G. CRAWFORD.

MAY DELAY VICTORY WASHINGTON, June 26.—If there has been a noticeable sigh of relief among government officials here over sudden shifting of the European war center to Russia, the feeling is also general in military circles that, unless the Soviets surprise the world by standing the Germans off, the length of the war may be extended indefinitely—possibly five years or more—before an Allied victory may be envisioned. That is the meaning of the statement by high administration officials that developments of the next four to six weeks will likely set the pattern of the war for at least the next two years.

Competent military experts have already pointed out the stronger strategic position Germany would be in if she succeeded in bringing Russia to quick terms without severe damage to her own war machine. Taking over of the Ukraine, with its vast food supplies and vital oil reserves, would fortify Hitler with two of the most essential elements needed to overcome the British blockade and prolong the war indefinitely. From this standpoint the prospect of a German victory over the Russians offers anything but encouragement.

And even though the victory over Russia is incomplete it is the view of military men that the capture of the Ukraine and north Caucasus would open the way for Hitler to envelop the entire British position in the Middle East. On the other hand, he would be able to threaten British control of India, while, on the other, he could cut off the Persian source of oil for the British fleet and other forces in the Middle East, moving on into Iraq, Syria and Palestine for an attack on the Suez Canal.

RELIEVED TENSION Nevertheless, the fact that the German chancellor has engaged himself in these far-flung operations has been sufficient to relieve the tension that previously existed in Washington. It does not mean that the administration is in any way disposed to heed the new cry of isolationists that we may now relax our extensive defense efforts, but it does provide something that might involve us in the war.

Before the Russian attack was launched there was the constant threat of Hitler undertaking his long-awaited invasion of England, which offered possibilities of our immediate involvement through naval and air support of the British. So long as he is engaged with the Russians there seems little likelihood of this happening. It gives us more time to speed up defense production against the day when we may be drawn into the fight.

There is another logical deduction in the same connection advanced by some of our naval authorities with an eye on the Japanese situation. Unless it should become apparent that the Germans are in for a quick victory over the Russians, there is little danger, these sources say, of the Japs moving against Singapore and the Dutch East Indies—a development that might involve us in the Pacific before taking such a step the Tokyo government, it is argued, may want to know which way the cat is jumping. It suggests a lessening of the tension in the Pacific no less than in the Atlantic.

WANT EVEN WAR Although the Roosevelt administration, following the lead of Prime Minister Churchill, has committed itself to the aid of the Russians, there is no gainsaying the fact that nothing would suit Washington officials better than to sit back and watch Hitler and Stalin fight it out to a finish.

The feeling is that an evenly matched, long-drawn-out war between them would mark the end of both Nazism and Communism, the two chief ideologies that are more responsible for the present disturbed state of world affairs. But concern over the situation grows out of the appraisal of military experts that the two forces are not evenly matched. The best available information points to superiority of Nazi forces and equipment, with no assurance that the Russians will be able to prevent at least a partial German victory. One thing is certain: Hitler and the German military command would hardly have invited the disaster of a Russian war if they did not believe in the superiority of the Nazi machine.

No one knows the extent of Russian preparations in anticipation of the sudden German declaration of war, but looking back over events of the past several months it is impossible to see how Moscow might have been lulled into a feeling of false security because of the existence of the 10-year nonaggression pact between the two countries, signed with such great fanfare as a prelude to the beginning of the war two years ago.

CHURCHILL KNEW British intelligence has had Hitler marked down for a move against Russia for some time. Prime Minister Churchill professed to know as much six months ago. The information formed an important part of the report he gave Wendell L. Willkie and Harry Hopkins for relay to the President when the two Americans visited London early in the year.

Also a prediction of the German move was made no more than a week before it started by Senator Walter F. George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who usually reflects State Department information. In an interview generally published at the time, he stated that the Germans would find it necessary to close the door of their eastern boundaries by a successful attack on Russia before they could launch the British invasion. No one dreamed that the war would start so soon then, if at all.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH I. JONES.

From a Man Who Knows.

Dr. Douglas P. Miller was, for 15 years, United States commercial attaché at our embassy in Berlin. He retired only one year ago.

On May 21, last, he spoke at the annual banquet of the South Denver Civic Association. A copy of his address has reached my hands.

Nowadays the general public is besieged by so many would-be wise commentators upon everything that happens, anywhere in the world, over radio, in magazines and newspapers, from the speakers' platform, that it is a genuine relief to hear, or read, the words of a man who actually knows whereof he speaks. So, it seems to me, there is exceptional interest in the words of Dr. Miller when he speaks of modern Germany, of the Nazis and of opinions and conditions in that country both before and since the rise to power of Hitler. For he was there, in a position of authority and importance. He should know.

Here are excerpts from his address:

America Will Decide Outcome.

"No military machine abroad is going to have the final decision in this war. It lies in the hands and hearts of the American people. The battle of America is the greatest battle of the war."

"In forming our opinion, in charting America's course in the war, there are a few things that we must keep in mind."

"First of all, Hitler and the Nazi are our enemies. They have been our enemies for a long time. Hitler says there are two poles in the world—the pole of Germany, the pole of order, discipline and scientific progress; and the pole of the United States, the pole of democratic anarchy, decadent Christianity, disorganization that must accompany the system of free enterprise. The Nazi dislike us on all those points."

"The Nazi have often told me that they have a bill to present to America, an itemized bill—a bill for damages for our entry in the last war and a bill for greater damages for our attempt to introduce democratic principles into central Europe—and, finally for what we are doing in the present war. They don't like us. . . . The time has gone by when we can argue whether or not we are going to fight. Now we must decide where we fight and when we fight and whether or not we are going to win or lose."

"We are already in this war only we are trying to fool ourselves. We are not fooling Hitler. The last thing he wants is for the United States to proclaim hostilities openly against him. He knows that we will have to pay the bill; we will know then that we were in the war; but we are in it, according to Hitler, today. Years ago Theodore Roosevelt said, 'You can't fight half a war.' Measures short of war will leave us short of victory. We can't do such a thing as fail."

"... as regards our open participation in this war, let's talk it. Let's scare Hitler as far as we can."

What Germans Are Thinking.

"Every German at heart thinks of three things joined together: war, defeat and inflation. Every German, the day we enter the war, will begin to think how he can get out of the matter with the minimum trouble to himself. I never saw one Nazi who was sure of success. They are all wondering and worried about the future. . . . I see the time coming when there will be no German who is willing to admit he ever wore a Swastika, a brown shirt, or even as much as saw a Nazi. I remember a German workman saying, 'The time will come when we are going to light a bonfire in front of our factory and going to take the Nazi leaders and burn them alive. . . . I believe the time will come when the German people will themselves ask for an American army to protect them from the violence of the enslaved people they are now holding down.'"

"I have one proposal regarding the future settlement and our attitude toward Germany, if we are fortunate enough to win and pray God we will. I think the wisest thing, a possible solution, would be to take advantage of the natural geographic and economic features in the existing situation. Germany is strong because she has industry. The German industry is queerly located; a large part of it is on the western border of the Danube and the Rhine, another part on the Polish side of Silesia. I would be in favor of redrawing the map of Europe, taking these particular areas out of the new Germany and leaving Germany without her industrial heart. I would turn them back to agriculture, remove them from coal, steel and iron and put them back to wood and leather. They would have to work hard as farmers, ranchers and herdsmen, deprived of engineering and mechanics, set up so they could not have the opportunity to build war industries. I would pull their teeth and cut their claws. . . . I don't have them. They are a wonderful people. But just because of that, we can't allow them to dominate us."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, June 27, 1916:

"Atlanta troops will begin en route for the mobilization camp at Macon this morning at daybreak when the Governor's Horse

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A Special Privilege NEW YORK, June 26.—The teamsters have been celebrating a strike in Pittsburgh, which is, of course, one of the most important centers of defense industry in the entire country. The dispute, which involves a question of wages, has been ornamented with the usual sluggings and burnings, and a politically indifferent local government and an incompetent police force have offered no protection to citizens who displease the union thugs nor any resistance to the criminals themselves. Acts of wanton brutality and vandalism which, done by George Selvin, the average American, would land him in prison and disgrace his family are tolerated as ordinary behavior, and the teamsters in Pittsburgh, as elsewhere, enjoy a special privilege to slug, burn and deny the use of the public streets and highways to citizens who pay taxes for their maintenance and for the salaries of the cops.

As a special concession to the law-abiding element of the American population the licensed banditry of the AFL have agreed not to prevent delivery to industrial plants of materials required in the production of weapons and other tools and wares intended for the defense of the nation. In so doing they have, of course, claimed and asserted a right to prevent by violence, including sabotage, assault and arson the movement through the public streets and over the highways of other goods which cannot be conscientiously certified as defense materials.

Subdued Community And the people of the community are so thoroughly subdued by a long record of such criminality that they do not even question the justice of this program, or, if they do question it, they nevertheless submit to the fact that the teamsters are a law unto themselves and that their charter, from Mr. Tobin's international headquarters in Indianapolis, amounts to a license to commit crime. In Pittsburgh as in Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Minneapolis and many other cities, the people have seen the power of government slip from the hands of their elected local and state governments into those of licensed thugs who enjoy recognition and approval from the supreme court of the United States, congress and the executive branch of the national government.

A few days ago the W. W. Patterson company, manufacturers of tackle blocks and related devices and gadgets, received notice that a shipment had arrived by railroad. The company, which is not involved in the teamsters' dispute with their employers, desired delivery of this material for use in a job undertaken for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, which, in turn, is turning out national defense orders.

In order to obtain the goods from the railroad yard the Patterson company first had to call on lieutenant Richard P. Brown, of the Pittsburgh ordinance district of the War Department, who wrote an official letter to the business agent of Local 249 of the teamsters certifying that the material "is used in the fulfillment of defense orders" and advising that "your co-operation in securing the release of this material will be appreciated."

War Department Must Beg Favor In other words, the United States here is pleading with the teamsters not to indulge in its usual lawless conduct as a special favor to the national government.

The letter was taken to the union office and there okayed by one M. Rosenthal, but W. W. Patterson Jr., who presented the request for safe conduct, was then informed that he must apply for another visa at the office of another local union. At this place, when it appeared that not all of the materials in the consignment had yet arrived, the citizen-suppliant was told to "come and see me again in a few days," and that was as far as he could get with Mr. Dan Tobin's invisible government.

In the course of this routine mob action by licensed thugs of the union racket it has been disclosed or recalled that the honorable secretary-treasurer of Local 249, Mr. Scott Marshall, is a criminal who was sentenced to two years on probation—not two years nor even two hours in prison—in 1935 for wrecking and burning a big truck on a public highway by way of enforcing his union's rule.

Carried Gun On Parole Charged with assault with a gun, burning and aggravated assault, he pleaded guilty but, nevertheless, was allowed to go free, although he had previously been indicted for possessing explosives and charged with injuring a man with a brick. Not only was he set free but he was also licensed to carry a pistol while still on parole.

The present strike apparently is coming to a close now, but the conduct of the union since June 1 has prevented the delivery of goods through the streets and over the roads, except by truckers holding union passports, and the blockade has held up not only nondefense wares legally in transit but many materials indirectly intended for defense.

This is no spectacular outrage as union conduct goes but an ordinary manifestation of the familiar union policy of "the public be damned!"

Guard board a special train over the Southern railroad at 6 o'clock."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, June 27, 1891:

"The generals, colonels and captains have told their stories of the war, and now the Georgia privates are giving their side of it in well-written articles in the weekly press. This is right. If there were any privates in the war, the country ought to know them."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE RETURN OF FRANK GRAHAM Frank Graham, University of North Carolina, returned home for a visit a few days ago.

A group of alumni met him at the train and gave him a rousing reception. They honored integrity and character.

Frank Graham is a quiet man. But absolutely fearless. He has done a splendid job on the Mediation Board. People trust him. They have reason to trust him.

He has had many, many controversies with some of his alumni and the businessmen of North Carolina. One manufacturer long has flooded the mails with charges that Frank Graham was a fellow traveler of the Communist party. This was too ridiculous to stand up. He has been in the sharpest of controversies. He never loses his temper. He is tolerant of the criticism which has been heaped upon him.

The Asheville Citizen said, in writing of Frank Graham and of the controversies in which he has been engaged:

"These clashes have never been permitted to mar the esteem in which the alumni and Graham hold each other. It can be truthfully said of the alumni and of the president that they disagree only in their opinions. Perhaps these amicable disputes would take bitter turns if Frank Graham were more dogmatic in defending his positions and less tolerant of the honest criticisms of others."

"The University of North Carolina is the oldest state university in this country. Soon it will celebrate its 150th anniversary. But it never stood higher in the admiration of the people of North Carolina or in the confidence of the people of the United States than at the present moment. For this happy circumstance Frank Graham is deserving of chief praise."

COMFORTING THINKING It is comforting to think about Frank Graham. Here in Georgia we apparently are in for a summer in which travesty is to be piled on travesty.

A man convicted by a jury in two trials involving the mishandling of money is one of those interested in censoring the schoolbooks of Georgia.

Once a famous preacher who was tried for murder and acquitted is coming to the state to preach along the lines of Ku Kluxism.

Racial hatreds are going to be stirred. The charge of Communism is going to be hurled at this one and that one.

False charges are going to be piled on top of false charges. There is no issue of "white supremacy," yet we will be told there is such an issue.

All this is going to be done deliberately in the name of politics. It is going to be a summer of testing. It is going to be a testing of the common sense of the great masses of people in the state.

There will be minds that will become inflamed. It is terrifying to think what injustices may be committed; what mobs may be loosed; what emotions may be around.

There will be those who will stand steadfast through it all, as Frank Graham stands in North Carolina, knowing the real truth and refusing to admit that mobs or the mob spirit are right; that appeals to ignorance and prejudices are never justified, believing always in the truth.

THE POWER OF PROPAGANDA Hitler explained the technique of sweeping people up by propaganda in his book, "Mein Kampf." He was talking of the power of a lie. Hitler said:

"All propaganda should be popular and should adapt its intellectual level to the perception of the least intelligent of those toward whom it intends to direct itself. Therefore, its intellectual level must be screwed the lower, the greater the mass of people which one wants to attract."

"The receptive ability of the great masses is only very limited, their understanding is small; on the other hand, their forgetfulness is great. This being so, all effective propaganda should be limited to a very few points which, in turn, should be used as slogans until even the very last man is able to imagine what is meant by such become versatile, the most justices may be committed; what mobs may be loosed; what emotions may be around."

Thus the effect will be weakened and finally canceled. "In the size of the lie there is always contained a certain factor of credibility, since the great masses of a people may be more corrupt in the bottom of their hearts than consciously and intentionally bad. Therefore, with the primitive simplicity of their minds, they will more easily fall victims to a great lie than to a small one, since they themselves lie sometimes in little things, but would certainly be too much ashamed of very great lies."

"By propaganda, with clever and permanent application, even heaven can be palmed off on a people as hell and, the other way around, the most wretched life as Paradise."

One may hope that on farms, that in small towns, that in cities there will be those who if this testing time does come—who will be able to keep their eyes on the truth; who will not be swept up into another Tom Watson saturnalia of hate and wrong in which evil is called good and a lie the truth.

I like to remember Frank Graham.

If It Is Honest Stuff, the Label Will Tell Who Makes It

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The FCC has lately used its powers to break up what it called a monopoly. If it was a monopoly, it served the public remarkably well; and the FCC has not benefitted the public in any way by breaking it up.

If the commission wishes to be useful, there are many better ways to exercise its powers.

It could, for example, require every broadcaster to name the sponsor who is financing him.

If a soap manufacturer is paying for a broadcast, the announcer tells us so. "The manufacturer is trying to win the good will of the public, and has nothing to hide."

But a speaker may use the radio to serve an evil cause or do injury to his country without telling who pays the bill. We know he isn't spending his own money. And we have a right to know who finances him.

The FCC should and should require every speaker to reveal, under oath, the source of the money that pays him and the broadcasting company.

Use of the radio is often confused with the right of free speech, but they have no connection.

Any citizen has the right of free speech in his home or on the street or in a hall he hires. But you paid for your receiving set and a private company built the broadcasting system, and the opportunity to make use of both is not a right but a privilege that must be paid for and deserved.

On the street, a free man may say what he thinks of Jews, Catholics or Protestants. But the FCC does not permit him to say it in a radio broadcast.

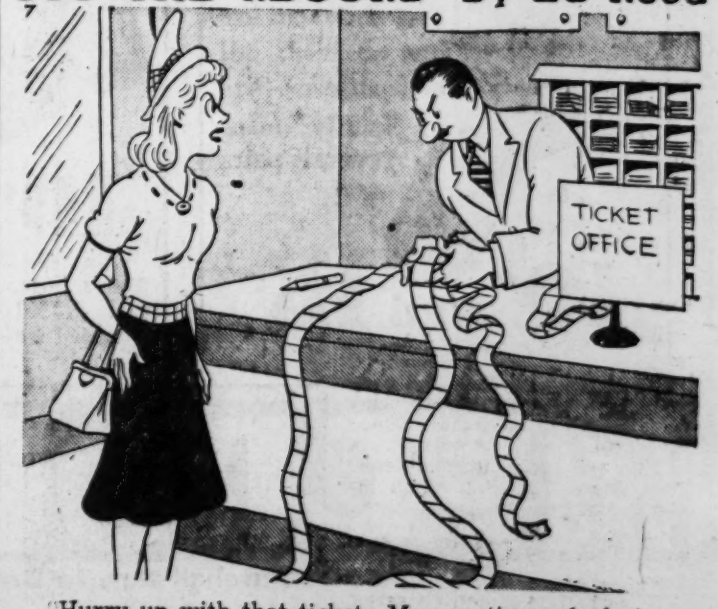

The FCC concedes that you have the right to be protected from speech that would be offensive to you—that entering your home through your receiving set is not a right but a privilege.

True, you can shut off the radio. And if a stranger thrusts his head through your open window and talks for half an hour, you can close the window or call your dog. But you have a right to keep your window open without being compelled to hear language that offends you.

Grants the speaker's right to use the radio to discuss controversial subjects, so long as he pays for the privilege. But the fact remains that he has no right to violate the universally accepted standards of decency or to deceive and trick the people by pretending to be what he is not.

Require him to name his sponsor and the public will be protected. That would be a real service.

Uncle Jeems Peavy Discusses Rain and The Power of Prayer

Uncle Jeems Peavy, whom I hadn't seen in months, dropped in to discuss the Russian situation, to reach for a cigarette—because I never have any eatin' tobacco—and lead up to a trifling financial proposition—borrowing a quarter. If I had in my pants pocket all the quarters Uncle Jeems has borrowed to tide him over a temporary stringency, I'd sag on one side and walk like the drunk who traversed several blocks with one foot off the curb and was convinced he was crippled. But that's beside the point. Uncle Jeems is always a good investment.

But any visitor would have been slightly unwelcome at that moment. I had just entered my workshop to discover the windows had been left open the evening before and a cloudburst had invaded it. The only dry thing in sight was a volume of The Congressional Record dated some time in 1912 and serving a daily useful purpose—holding down a stack of exchanges on top of a tall bookshelf.

I remarked that man was hard to please. I didn't mention women because nobody with a modicum of brains ever expects to keep a woman pleased. If you brought her home a fur coat she'd burst into tears and ask what woman you bought it for originally and why did she cast you off? What I meant was that all of us had been complaining about the drouth and cried aloud for rain—and when we got it we were disgusted. We didn't want all the last six months' arrears paid up in a lump sum—with accumulated interest.

"If you ask me," said Uncle Jeems, "I'd blame it on the preachers."

"Some folks believe in the power of prayer and some don't. Me, I'm kinder neutral. It works sometimes and sometimes it don't. I remember a circuit rider back home when I was runnin' barefooted who refused to pray for rain. 'Not while the wind's in the southeast,' he said. 'Hit's ag'in nature.'"

No Five-Cent Rain.

"I heered a fellow talkin' a day or so ago about what happened in some town down south of Macon. Dismember which."

"Seems a fellow that hung around the drugstore and took a shot at any and everything saw a Baptist preacher come in."

"Brother," he says, 'If you'll put up a good prayer for rain I'll buy you a lemon-and-lime or whatever you'll have.'"

"This preacher wasn't so easy. 'If you want just a nickel's worth of rain you can do your own prayin', he says. 'Suppose you try it. It won't hurt none.'"

"Man buyin' a hunk of side meat says: 'Bill, you can't get rain for a nickel. Why don't you give the preacher two dollars for the missionary fund?'"

"Bill says: 'Shucks, if I'm goin' to invest two bucks in prayer, I'm goin' to trust it to a Methodist. Here comes the Rev. T. Q. Johnson now.'"

For Two Bucks

"So Bill give the Methodist preacher two dollars and told him to do his best. And exactly 42 minutes after that the town had a gully-washer and a branch-buster that run all the poor folks out of their shacks down by the creek."

"I ain't sayin' a Methodist prayer beats a Baptist's. It might have been a purely local situation. That Baptist preacher didn't have a fair chance. He didn't get the right offer. But, anyway, as I heerd it, when Bill got back to his farm his chickens was all drowned and most of his crop washed away."

I suggested that a local incident away down below Macon hardly could have soaked everything in my sanctum.

"My idea is," said Uncle Jeems, "is that too many people in too many places started callin' on the preachers to pray for rain. And maybe too many of 'em prayed at once. And you know, when a preacher gets in a weavin' way, he ain't what you call conservative. He goes out in a big way. When he prays for rain he wants rain—not drizzles."

"So you believe the concentrated prayers of preachers and people for rain to save the crops had their effect," I asked.

"Brother," said Uncle Jeems, "I am a sinful man. I don't believe in nothin' much except some one Almighty Being and 'Gene Talmadge. But in my day and time I've seen the power of prayer do a lot. I've seen it raise the dead—or folks we was plumb sure was dead. There's a hell of a lot of things you and me don't know a damn thing about."

"But if the preachers—and their combined power of prayer with faith—busted up this drouth I'm for 'em. Exceptin' I wish they could have got together and fixed it up so we wouldn't have had so many gully-washers where we didn't need 'em and more rain up in the mountains where the power lakes are runnin' dry."

Not for Him

Young fellow in a North Georgia town was doing pretty well in business when his uncle blew in with a few words of unsolicited advice.

"You need a slogan," he said. "Every merchant needs a slogan. Take that furniture dealer down the street. He advertises: 'We stand behind every bed we sell.' Why not advertise: 'I stand behind everything I sell?'"

"Not me, Uncle Jim," protested the nephew. "You didn't give me time to tell you—but I sell mules."

Smaller city newspapers have troubles the city dailies share only occasionally.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Socrates had a fairly clear understanding of a good many things, even things that we sometimes boldly claim to have been unknown to the old-timers. Take the question of psychesoma, for example, by which is meant the science of treating the whole man, mind as well as body, spiritual as well as physical; what did Socrates think about that? This:

"Let no one persuade you to cure the head until he has given his soul to be cured, for this is the greater error—that physicians

Herald entered young Billy Bailey—with two baby bats. He deposited them on the desk and walked out.

What to do in a case like that. Billy's folks may be old subscribers. I don't know Fitzgerald, but Billy's daddy may be a regular advertiser. So Editor Pryor may go batty over bats.

He put them in the show window, where they hung themselves upside down on a curtain. Let's hope they escape. Which would solve a vexed situation.

Editorials about Fourth of July traffic dangers are dotting the press. The slogan is "Be Alive on the Fifth."

The glorious Fourth has been a hazard for many a year—even before the automobile era. People were burned by fireworks. They were bitten by snakes. They were drowned in rivers, lakes and oceans.

Law of averages was largely responsible. More folk playing outdoors the more folk taking chances. Old law of averages gets in its work.

Personally, I rarely leave home on holidays to seek the pleasure spots. I can go almost any other time just as well and more comfortably.

But few folk sit as pretty as that. A big holiday is their only chance at a change of scene.

I can offer little advice. None, except to drive carefully, always figure the other driver is drunk or a darn fool, go in bathing only where you're certain it's safe, be careful about what you eat and where—and don't try to make it from here to Montreal and back because you have three days off.

separate the soul from the body. Therefore, it the head and body are to be well, you must begin by curing the soul." (Quoted from Plato's Dialogues.)

Commenting on this quotation from Socrates, Dr. Harry Williams, member of the staff of the Thomas Emery hospital, Moradabad, says:

"The last 20 years have brought a spate of speculation and discovery concerning endocrine glands which themselves, under nervous control, produce chemical messengers traveling in the blood and affecting the growth, nutrition and function of the body." Thus the complete healer needs more than drugs, more than a knowledge of anatomy and pathology in his armamentarium, and even a training in psychology alone is not sufficient. He needs certain qualities in himself, an ability to project himself into the circumstances of his patients, sincerity and sympathy.

"The history of Christian medical missions is rich in men who wielded great influence because their patients had faith in them. A British official expressed his appreciation of such a medical missionary thus: 'No man living has done so much for Kashmir as he has done, and the memory of his saintly and unselfish life and his high skill as a surgeon will remain for very many years to come in not only Srinagar but in every village in Kashmir. We political officers work hard to do our best, but I have always thought that in bringing together English and Indian in the chain of mutual trust and affection the work of such a man is worth more.'"

"One day I sat with some very poor men in a medical mission in the east end of London. For the first time I heard the story of Dr. Starr, killed in Afghanistan, told by his friend. Both had worked in the medical mission as students and could even be remembered by some of the older men present. That afternoon I knew that chief among those who had taught these men their medicine was Christ Himself."

Yes, Socrates was right, and Dr. Williams is right, and our great doctors today are right. Paul declared that there are many members of the body, and yet the body is one—we are spirit, mind and flesh. What hurts one, hurts all. A sound mind in a sound body is possible only when the spirit of man is sound—when it has been cleansed by the blood of Jesus, renewed by the power of the Spirit of God. Then, and only then, are we completely sound and well.

Wrecked Army Plane, Bodies of Two Found

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 26.—(P)—A wrecked Army plane and the bodies of two fliers were found at daylight today on a ranch five miles north of San Antonio.

The fliers, Lieutenant John W. Crews, 22, Randolph field flying instructor, and Private Dennis A. Eckelberg, 18, of the 53rd School Squadron, had been on night weather patrol duty. Crews' home town is Columbia, S. C. Eckelberg lived at Bellville, Texas.

BREAKS LOAN RECORDS

The Cartersville (Ga.) Building & Loan Association made months of loans during the past year in one year in history. This was revealed at the annual meeting of the association recently by Secretary T. W. Simpson. Directors re-elected include Ben C. Walton, Luke Pettit, L. E. Jackson, E. W. Smith and Homer Green.

ADLER ON BOARD

Since the appointment of Rudolph S. Adler, of the firm of Hentz, Adler & Schutz, architect, of this city, as a member of the advisory board of architects named by Nathan Straus, of the USA, he has attended a meeting of the board held in Washington June 3, but was unable to attend another meeting last Thursday in New York. However, from time to time, Adler will be called to various meetings, where advice will be sought by the government on improving the appearance and livability of the apartment houses without increasing the rent.

GEORGIA LIVESTOCK BOUGHT

According to figures just announced by Albert J. Morrill, president of the Kroger, Groceries & Baking Company, the buyers of that company purchased a total of 1,116 animals at 84 H-H America sales during the past year. Although this was a record for participation in that company's plans to take part in even more junior livestock events during the current year.

Ex-German Federal Wage Officer Takes Violation Laid Citizen's Vow To Firm Here

Bullet-Proof Tank Idea Credited to Atlantan, H. P. Wagner.

A former major in the German army—a veteran of 38 major engagements in World War I—was revealed as co-inventor of a "bullet proof" tank yesterday as he was admitted to citizenship in the United States.

The former officer, Hans Paul Wagner, was among more than 25 foreign-born men and women who were granted naturalization papers in proceedings before District Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

Wagner, who lives with his wife at 887 Ponce de Leon avenue, is a chemist, and came to this country five years ago. He readily took the oath of allegiance to the United States, and, in reply to questions by Judge Underwood, said:

"I don't think it's right for 'tourists' and 'business agents' from foreign countries to come here. When they are found to be agents of the foreign countries, working against the interests of this country, they should be sent right back."

Wagner also stated that he was neither a Nazi nor Bundsman, and added that he had no sympathies with the principles or practices of the Nazi party.

During his examination before Judge Underwood, George Starr Peck, Atlanta attorney, stated that Wagner was co-inventor of a "bullet proof" tank, plans for which the former German army officer has submitted to the War Department.

Graduate of Hanover.

Questioned about the invention following his examination, Wagner told reporters that "further information on that must come from the War Department," and declined to discuss it. He spoke readily, however, of his past life, revealing that he was educated at the University of Hanover and that he had fought in 38 battles of the first World War.

Commenting on the present European conflict, he praised the English as "good soldiers, well-trained and well disciplined." He also praised the American soldier as a "fine fighter, among the best in the world, honest, straight shooters."

Construction Total Trebles 1940 Volume

Hundred-Million Mark Topped for Fourth Week in Row.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards for the week ended today were reported by the Engineering News-Record at $143,520,000, a gain of 312 per cent over the total for the corresponding week last year. The volume was 17 per cent under the previous week, which was high for the year.

For the last four weeks construction totals have topped the $100,000,000 mark.

Public construction showed the widest increase over last year, 443 per cent, but the figure was down 18 per cent from the previous week's record total. Private awards were up 40 per cent compared with last year, but 14 per cent under a week ago.

Publication Ends On Welfare Rolls

Governor Talmadge completed today the publication of the names of all Georgians on the Social Security rolls and the amount given to each.

A federal ban on such publication becomes effective July 1, with violation possibly entailing loss of federal matching funds for providing aid to the aged, the blind and dependent children.

Although Federal Social Security officials objected that the publicizing of the names exposed the aid of recipients to exploitation, Talmadge went ahead in line with a campaign pledge. He contended that taxpayers were entitled to know where their money was going and that publication would bring to light any inequalities in distribution of funds.

Russians Taunt Nazis On Baffling Revelations

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—The Russian radio challenged Germany with heavy sarcasm tonight to come forth with its "baffling" revelations which the Berlin radio has promised to the world repeatedly for the last two days.

The Russian announcer said in a broadcast heard here by NBC that the Germans had not announced anything but generalities because there "were no miracles to be reported."

Atlantic Company Is Named 'Evaders' in Ruling of Judge.

The Atlantic Company, of Atlanta, yesterday was charged with violations of the wage-hour law in an opinion filed in federal district court here.

The opinion, handed down by Judge Robert L. Russell, asserts evasion through use of an "employment card arrangement," described in the judge's findings as "a mathematical allocation of a portion of a total guaranteed weekly salary which does not evidence the real rate of pay at which the employee is employed."

Judge Russell's opinion, filed on the wage and hour division's suit against the Atlantic Company, holds that the division is entitled to an injunction enjoining and restraining the company from violations of the act.

The Atlantic Company, it was found, is engaged in the manufacture of beer and ice, the icing of refrigerator cars, which move in interstate commerce and the operation of a cold storage and warehousing plant. The court found these activities come within the scope of the fair labor standards act and the company was charged with violation of minimum wage and overtime provisions of the act.

Be Prepared For Questions If You Are 21

New Draft Group Must Register on Next Tuesday.

If you have turned 21 years old since October 16, you must register for selective military service at one of Georgia's 188 local boards between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. Tuesday.

And here is information you must be prepared to give, according to an announcement yesterday by Brigadier General Sion B. Hawkins, state director of selective service:

NAME. This means the full name given at birth. If you are called by initials, you must give the names for which they stand, unless they are recognized as your legal name.

PLACE OF RESIDENCE. This information will determine the board to which you will be assigned.

MAILING ADDRESS. In most cases this address will be the same as the place of residence. However, if you live away from home, have a post office box, live on an R. F. D. route, or travel, this will enable the board to find you quicker.

TELEPHONE. This must be the telephone where you can be reached easily. If there is no telephone, state "none."

AGE IN YEARS. The exact age will be required.

PLACE OF BIRTH. You should find out from your family if there is any doubt.

DATE OF BIRTH. The month, day, and year of your birthday will be asked.

OCCUPATION. If employed, you should tell what you do, and if in school or college, state the fact, along with any special course you may be taking.

NAME AND ADDRESS OF A PERSON WHO WILL ALWAYS KNOW YOUR ADDRESS. This should be someone who does not move around with you, and should not be your wife or employer. Preferably your father or mother or some relative with whom you are always in touch.

EMPLOYER'S NAME AND ADDRESS. If you work for a large concern, state its name, not the name of your immediate employer. If you work for an individual, his name should be given.

PLACE OF EMPLOYMENT OR BUSINESS. You should state the address, street and town, where you work.

General Hawkins warned yesterday that the act of registration is only for purpose of supplying information so the board may later communicate with each registrant and work out details for classification or selection.

Oil Industry To Name Route Of Pipelines

Decision Expected After Conference in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) Ralph K. Davies, deputy defense petroleum co-ordinator, said tonight that a decision probably would be announced early next week on what oil pipeline construction would "most quickly relieve" the predicted petroleum scarcity in the east.

The statement followed a day long conference in which executives of the major oil companies were unable to agree on the route that an emergency line or lines should follow.

Davies polled the oil men on their preferences as to the routing. This developed wide divergence of views, reflecting considerations of the economic effects of such oil facilities when the emergency has passed.

The varied proposals were not announced, but a spokesman said the discussion centered principally on whether a "northern" or "southern" route should be chosen for a line from the southwest to the Philadelphia-New York City area. No details were given on the proposals for such routes.

It was indicated such a line could move 250,000 barrels daily, which is virtually equivalent to the shortage expected this fall.

Melons Are Moving From Tifton Farms

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. TIFTON, Ga., June 26.—J. T. Turk, who lives near Hickory Springs, loaded the first car of melons for the season at Tifton, loading a car that averaged 32 pounds and sold for $185.

"The crop is both short and late this year, caused by the late spring and the dry weather. Shipments are expected to be the smallest in several years."
